VOL. XX.....NO. 6234. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1871. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

FUNDING UNITED STATES FIVE-TWENTY BONDS.

OFFICE OF

FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS, &c.,

No. 5 NASSAU-ST.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 5, 1871.

The Government have notified the holders of ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS OF FIVE-TWENTY BONDS of 1865 that they will be paid in gold; and that after Dec. 1, next, the interest will cease. All holders of the issues of 1862, 1864, 1865 and new 1865s, should at once decide whether they will hold their Bonds, and take the gold when called on, or convert into the new Government 5s, 4½s, and 4s, or exchange for other securities. As it is possible the premium on gold may be much less when these heavy payments commence, it clearly becomes the duty of all holders of Five-twenties to take the matter into serious consideration.

We are already recommending in exchange the SIX PER CENT. BONDS of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, now selling at 89 and accrued interest, of which we have only about $1,000,000 left unsold. The total amount of this loan is $15,000,000. They are issued in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, coupon and registered, interest 6% per Cent., May and November; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin.

We also recommend the Bonds of the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, now consolidated with the CENTRAL PACIFIC. These are all coupon Bonds of $1,000 each, interest 6% per Cent., January and July; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin. The total amount of the loan is $8,736,000; all sold by the Company. Market price about 85. The payment of these Bonds, by the terms of the consolidation, has been assumed, principal and interest, by the Central Pacific Railroad Company.

Also, the CENTRAL PACIFIC 6%s. The CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS has all Coupon Bonds of $1,000 each, interest 6% per Cent., January and July; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin. The CENTRAL PACIFIC, limited by act of Congress to $25,885,120, all sold by the Company—one fifth always reserved by this act the Government bonds, and may sometimes be sold, at par, readily as any Five-twenty Bonds; they have freely sold in all the speculative Stock Exchanges in the world, and should advance to the price of Government Bonds. Rumor never knew about job. That the same result will follow with the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS, on the completion of the road, we have no doubt.

By conversion into Central Pacific bonds of Five-twenties retain the same rate of interest, and increase their capital about Eight per Cent., and in other case, have a bond just as sure to be paid, principal, and interest, as a Five-Twenty Bond. As the amount of Chesapeake and Ohio Bonds remaining unsold is so small, and the demand very great, they must soon be absorbed. There are very few Centrals and Westerns on the market, and, the present demand continuing, they will soon largely advance in price.

We also add that the earnings of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD will, without doubt, reach this year nearly, if not quite, the enormous sum of $10,000,000.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROAD is to Ohio Atlantic coast what the CENTRAL ROAD is to the Pacific coast. It is on the central trade line across the Continent, and tributary railroads are now being built and projected from all parts of the South-west, West, and North-west to connect with it and run over its direct ocean-to-ocean grades to tide-water.

As Financial Agents for these great roads we act freely and glad, at all times, to answer inquiries from Bond holders concerning the securities and business of these Companies and shall, from time to time, issue full reports of the earnings, &c., for their use, and in other respects keep watch over their interests.

FISK & HATCH,

Financial Agents for the Central Pacific Railroad Company and its Branches, and also for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company.

☞ P. S.—Accounts of Banks, Bankers and others received, on which we allow Four per Cent. interest. Certificates of deposit issued and collections made in all parts of the Union.

HARVEY FISK,

A. S. HATCH.

CONTROLLER CONNOLLY.

He Declines the Mayor's Invitation to Resign—He Will not Become a "Vicarious Sacrifice to the Misery Appetites of his Adversaries for a Victim."

Yesterday the mysterious disappearance of the vouchers and canceled warrants from the Finance Department had lost nearly all interest as a topic of conversation, in the more absorbing one of the Mayor's letter to Controller CONNOLLY, asking that official to resign. On the employees of the office the knowledge that such a letter had been sent seemed to fall like a thunderbolt. To them it was evidently quite unexpected. They looked at each other with blank faces, and all work in the office seemed to be entirely suspended. From quite an early hour a throng of newspaper men beset the Department, and were assured the Controller had not arrived. At noon, however, Mr. CONNOLLY was known to be in his private office. He sent out immediately for his Deputy, Mr. STORRS, and was closeted with him for several hours. During this time all attempts to get an interview with Mr. CONNOLLY were quite unavailing. Two well-known Albany lobbyists, and Mr. GEO. K. SUTHER, Mr. CONNOLLY's bond broker, who were a very anxious face, were the only persons admitted, and their interviews were very short. Mr. AUGUST BELMONT also appeared on the scene, and afterward paid a visit to the Mayor's Office. About 1 o'clock it was announced that the Controller was preparing an answer to the Mayor's letter, and that copies of it would be furnished as soon as possible. The rumors now were freely circulated that CONNOLLY had resigned, and those supposed to be in his secrets did not hesitate to say that his resignation had been sent in.

A representative of the TIMES called upon the Controller in the afternoon to learn what he might desire to say to the public concerning the present condition of City affairs, but more particularly touching his proposed resignation. Mr. CONNOLLY received his visitor with politeness, and although sorely pressed for time, readily granted an interview of several minutes' duration. In response to the questioner he stated, substantially, that as would not resign his place; that he was right in all that he had done in his official capacity, and that nobody could force him to take a step which he did not believe, in his heart, he ought to take. Mr. HALL told him, privately, on Monday morning, that he must "get" to which Mr. CONNOLLY replied, emphatically, that he would do nothing of the kind. He declared to the writer that he knew nothing whatever of the abstraction of the vouchers until he was informed by the janitor on Monday. He had a suspicion, however, which he did not dare to breathe at present, but of which the public would hear very soon, and which would entirely exonerate him. He was now sixty-two years of age, he said, of failing health, and tired of public life. He would, therefore, at all probability, soon retire into privacy, but not until he had been fully vindicated in this matter. At any rate, he would not allow himself to be driven out by the men who should stand by him. He had replied to Mr. HALL's letter, and copies would be sent to the newspapers in the evening.

THE CONTROLLER'S REPLY.

True to his promise, the Controller sent a reply to Mayor HALL, late in the afternoon. The following is a copy of his letter:

CONTROLLER'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Sept. 12, 1871.

How. A. Oakey Hall, Mayor:

MY DEAR SIR: Your letter of Sept. 11, asking my resignation as Controller, was presented to me last night at 11 o'clock, at an interview sought by yourself. Similar verbal requests, from yourself and others, have been, within the last few weeks, received and declined. The official source and subject matters of your note, as then read to me, and as published by you in this morning's Press, demanded, and has received my earnest consideration. A criminal obstruction of papers from the Finance Department seems the reason for your letter, so far as any is therein suggested.

In common with other City officers, I now stand before the public and "our constituency," charged with malfeasance in the administration of high trusts, so long confided to my care. The legal proceeding, wherein such charges are made, and to be substantiated, if at all, is now on hearing before a fearless and just tribunal. My answer thereto is before the public, and my complete defense ready to be presented, both to that high Court, "our constituents," and to the citizens of New-York at large. My counsel has urged, by my wish, a speedy trial and rigid investigation. I am fearless of the result, and anxious for the procedure. During the many years of my administration of this office I have not seen, and fail now to see, any diminution of public confidence, and such fact would have been readily marked, nothing being more sensitive to general opinion than financial administration. I beg leave to differ from your Honor, in thinking the robbery of my office creates any "unexpected or sudden emergency." I am not apprehensive that either yourself or the community will suspect that I am an accomplice in that depredation. I am happy to assure you that it has effected no serious mischief, the archives of the department containing ample abstracts of all the stolen papers. Whoever planned or executed the crime has reaped no benefit and inflicted no injury upon public interests. Would not my resignation at this particular time give the advocates of the partisan attacks upon the City Government just cause to believe me to plead guilty not only to participation (at least passive) in the burglary, but as well to all the charges now made in the legal proceedings? So it seems to me. My official acts have been supervised and approved by your superior vigilance—so far as my administration is questioned, equal responsibility attaches to yourself. In your answer and affidavit, read in the pending litigation, you have adopted and vindicated those acts. You could not justify yourself without so doing. Consequently I do not perceive why my resignation should be asked, or how, if tendered, it would have any just influence in appeasing popular clamor. Confident, therefore, in the steadfast good opinion of friends, in the ultimate judgment to be rendered by the Courts, I cannot, consistently with self-respect, accord to your desire. I am unable to submit myself a vicarious sacrifice to satisfy the hungry appetite of adversaries for a victim, or at this juncture, and under these peculiar circumstances, betray weakness of position or fear of rigid investigation by tendering my resignation.

I cannot now anticipate the effect upon this determination future events may produce. When my past administration shall be vindicated and pending accusations shall be repelled I shall not fail to act as may seem to be demanded by the changed circumstances which may then exist.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, Controller.

What Mr. Tweed Says.

A reporter of the TIMES yesterday afternoon visited the Department of Public Works in search of Hon. WILLIAM M. TWEED, but did not find him there, and was referred to No. 23 Duane-street, where he has a law office. His rooms at that number were found to be situated in a dark entry, and the door was double-locked. In response to a knock, however, a gentleman of unmistakably legal aspect came out, and when told that the visitor wanted to see Mr. TWEED, asked his name and disappeared, locking the door behind him. In a couple of minutes the Boss appeared, and the following colloquy ensued in the darkness of the entry:

REPORTER—Good morning, Sir. I am from the TIMES. Have you any statement or remarks to make concerning the present condition of the City Government? You may rely upon the publication of any such statement precisely as you give it, word for word.

Mr. TWEED—No, Sir. I have nothing to say. If I could say anything I would give it to you (smiling courteously) as readily as to any paper. I of course recognize that it is your business to collect all the news there is. But I have nothing to say. I cannot say anything. You can understand my position. I dont want to complicate my friends. One thing I will say, I do not intend to resign, as I have been called upon to do by the Herald and other papers. I don't see any reason why I should resign. Time will vindicate me from all these slanders, and, for that matter (a little less confidently) the Comptroller will vindicate me too.

REPORTER—You look upon this affair of Sunday at the City Hall as very unfortunate I suppose.

Mr. TWEED—Unfortunate! I guess I do. If I was Controller ——. It can't be looked upon in any other way than as most unfortunate for all concerned. It takes away that upon which alone we could rely for our vindication. But I cannot say anything, for my mouth is closed; you see my position. Good morning, Sir, said Mr. TWEED, as his large form disappeared through the door, which locked behind him.

In Search of the Mayor.

As might be reasonably anticipated in the present crisis of Municipal affairs, the Mayor's Office is a favorite place of resort. Yesterday presented a marked illustration of this fact, the corridors leading to the west end of the City Hall being thronged all day long with anxious politicians, and curious individuals of every description, all seeking for a view of or an interview with Mr. HALL.

All such persons, however, were doomed to disappointment. From MARSHAL HALL information was received at a late hour in the afternoon that the Mayor had not been at his office at any time during the day. The policeman on duty thought he had been seen about 1 o'clock. It was not, however, possible to find him, and the numerous patient waiters were forced to give up the search in despair.

During the day a communication was received at the TIMES office, to the effect that on Sunday last, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Mayor HALL was seen to alight from a carriage at the City Hall, and to pass between that building and the Court-house on foot. A reporter was sent to the Mayor in the evening to ascertain what he had to say about it.

Finding him after considerable search at the Manhattan Club, the reporter was answered by Mr. HALL as follows: "I was not down town on Sunday below the Manhattan Club, after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. I dined with Mr. O'GORMAN, and may say that I passed the remainder of the night with him. It is not customary for me to go to my office on Sunday, as I am usually out of town on that day."

An effort was then made to learn what the Mayor intended to do in view of Mr. CONNOLLY's refusal to resign, but he declined to reveal his intentions on that subject, and the reporter thereupon withdrew.

In conversation with another reporter, last evening, Mayor HALL declared positively that he did not intend to prefer articles of impeachment against Controller CONNOLLY. At the same time the Mayor expressed the opinion that Mr. CONNOLLY was acting unwisely in refusing to resign.

Mr. Sweeny Invisible.

LIKE his Honor, the Mayor, Mr. SWEENY was not to be found yesterday at his usual haunts. Application at the office of the Park Commissioners, No. 265 Broadway, was met by the assurance that he was not in. Much anxiety to find him seemed to be manifested on the part of numerous individuals of Hibernian nativity, one such being heard to remark to a clerk, "An' do you think Mr. SWEENEY will be shure to be here to-morrow?" To which question he got no satisfactory reply. Mr. SWEENY was not at his residence during the evening, but rumors were afloat that he had been engaged during the day with the Board of Apportionment.

An Unfounded Rumor.

A rumor was prevalent in the City, last evening, that Controller CONNOLLY had been arrested, but on inquiry at a late hour last night, the rumor was found to be incorrect.

The Feeling in Wall-Street.

The letter of Mayor HALL to CONNOLLY was generally discussed in Wall-street and vicinity yesterday, and there was an almost universal feeling of rejoicing among financial men at the quarrel between the leaders of the Ring, and the prospect of the disruption of that corrupt body. The letter was accepted as a sure indication of the waning power of the City's miscreants, and [illegible] petitions were [illegible] day. When rumors fell out [illegible] during business hours that the time had [illegible] when a resolute and united attack on the Ring could not fail to utterly annihilate it beyond all hope of resurrection. The Ring's confession of the infamous acts charged against it was the subject of deep congratulation, as showing that the time of its dissolution was not very far off.

The Feeling in Brooklyn.

The break-up of the Tammany Ring caused a good deal of excitement in Brooklyn, and during the day was the general topic of conversation. In the City Hall and Court-house; at the street corners, where politicians and their hangers-on are in the habit of gathering; on the ferry-boats and in the street-cars, it plainly occupied everybody's thoughts. And, singular to relate, prominent Democrats were foremost and loudest in their denunciations of the late Democratic leaders. Hon. JOHN C. JACOBS paid an early visit to the City Hall, and in conversation with Mayor KALBFLEISCH emphatically gave expression to his opinion about the "burglary" in the Controller's office. "It's their last dodge," he said. "It's the last prop gone from under them." The members of the Water Board left their department offices before noon, the outcries against Ring rule which were everywhere heard, having apparently had a very depressing influence upon them. More party feeling was forgotten in the thought that a corrupt and powerful clique had been broken to pieces. Toward evening the excitement became intensified, when Mr. CONNOLLY's rejoinder to Mayor HALL was published.

THE INJUNCTION FIGHT.

Reading of Affidavits for the Defendants Continued—Discussion Regarding the Opening Argument.

The public interest in the case of FOLEY against Tax Mayor and the rest of the Corporation Ring increases day by day. The deep feeling which was manifest among those present on the previous day became still more intense at the opening of the Court yesterday, owing somewhat, doubtless, to the announcement in the morning papers of the so-called "burglary" of public documents which had taken place in Controller CONNOLLY's office on the night of Sunday. As on the previous day, Judge BARNARD took his seat on the bench in the room of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, instead of the small and inadequate room assigned for the holding of Chambers; but even this was insufficient, and the connecting door with the Special Term room of the same Court being thrown open, that apartment also became thronged. Since the memorable trial of MCFARLAND no such general interest has been exhibited in a judicial proceeding in this City, the audience on the present occasion being remarkable not only for its numbers, but also for the intelligent and substantial character of those composing it. The reading of the affidavits and answers of the defendants, the substance of which appeared in the TIMES of yesterday, having been concluded early in the day, the auditors received with evident disappointment the announcement that the further hearing would be postponed until 11 o'clock this morning. Long after the adjournment numbers of citizens continued to inquire for the Court. Today, after the reading of the answer to be submitted on behalf of TWEED, counsel will proceed to the argument of the case, which will doubtless be listened to with deep interest, both by the defendants and their adherents, and the people at large, whose cause is now at issue.

At 11 A. M., yesterday, Judge BARNARD took the seat on the bench. Mr. JOHN FOLEY, accompanied by his counsel, Ex-Judge HARRIS, Messrs. FULLERTON and STRAHAN, were in attendance. Mr. O'GORMAN represented the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, and each of the defendants; Ex-Judge BEACH represented Mr. CONNOLLY; Mr. BARTLETT, Mr. WM. M. TWEED, and BROWN, HALL and VANDERPOEL appeared as counsel for Mayor HALL.

Mr. O'GORMAN then resumed the reading of the affidavits of Messrs. WILBOUR, STORRS and others on behalf of his clients, and Mr. BEACH read the affidavit of Mr. CONNOLLY. The substance of all these documents was given in yesterday's TIMES.

Mr. BARTLETT then said: Your Honor is aware that the true copy of the complaint in this action was furnished to me in open Court yesterday. On examining the order which has been made in the action I find that, so far as it affects Mr. TWEED, it is simply a command to him to perform certain official duties which he had performed as faithfully and sedulously before that order was made as he has done since. So far as I can see, therefore, it is as unimportant to him whether that order stand or fall, as it would be if it were an order that he should say his daily prayers, [laughter,] except that from the existence of any order against him, the inference may be drawn by the public that he had been derelict in the performance of some of his public duties which he has not been. In point of practice, the order is that legal monstrosity, a mandamus, under the name of an injunction, and it is the more remarkable is that an order so at variance with all correct practice in equity should have come from the hands of gentlemen so distinguished for learning as the able counsel for the plaintiff. There are in the complaint charges made against Mr. TWEED, some of which are frivolous, some of which are grave, but which are utterly untrue. He will meet them by a full and clear denial. Our papers, so far as we shall have any to read on the motion, are already in the hands of the printer, and will be ready to-morrow morning. You will see that we have made the utmost of the very short time allowed us since the opening of the Court.

Judge BARNARD—Then, on that announcement, you are not ready to go on today.

Mr. BARRETT—I have nothing to say against it except that we don't accuse Mr. TWEED of any sins of omission.

Mr. O'GORMAN—Under the circumstances, I think it best, if the Court will allow it, to have this case go over until to-morrow. The counsel would, perhaps, like some time to examine the voluminous affidavits; and, if it be not inconvenient to any of you, I would suggest, as a matter of convenience, that it would be the best course to adjourn until to-morrow.

Mr. BEACH—I want to make a personal suggestion in regard to the progress and continuance of this case. My presence here is unexpected to myself. The Saratoga session, at which I will be engaged, commences on Monday, and I have some old cases that stand on the calendar there. I am now postponing them to await the conclusion of these proceedings, and it would be very gratifying to me if some arrangement could be made in regard to progress, which would discharge me from my engagement with this argument, after to-morrow.

Judge BARNARD—Do you purpose making any observations to the Court in regard to the allegations made against your client?

Mr. BEACH—Most certainly I hope to do so, Sir.

Judge BARNARD—How long will it take you to read your papers Mr. BARTLETT?

Mr. BARTLETT—Not a very long time, Sir.

Judge BARNARD—Then Mr. BEACH can commence to make his opening.

Mr. BARRETT—I suppose we are the moving parties, and we have the opening and the reply. I think there is no dispute about that.

Judge BARNARD—The rule is different in our Courts from what it was in the Court of Common Pleas, when you were Judge. Here, when you obtain an order to show cause, you have the opening, but the opening is contained in the papers you move on the other side. He is called upon to defend himself on the other side, and if there is any opening he has the right to address the Court with his associate first, and you have the right last, with all your counsel. The other side, with all their counsel, have the right to be heard first.

Mr. BARRETT—That is satisfactory.

Mr. BEACH—I hope that order of discussion will not be adopted, for it would leave me in a very unfortunate predicament, and the order proposed by Judge BARNETT would be more satisfactory and more useful. So far as we are concerned, we have had no opportunity of hearing the opening. There has been no opening as far as our side is concerned, and I hope you will permit that the counsel on the part of the plaintiff should first present their views, that we may be advised of their character and answer them, and we have no objection that they should close with the argument.

Mr. BARRETT—We have no intention to introduce the custom of the Common Pleas here. The usual rule laid down by your Honor we accede to, and there is great propriety in it. It renders it incumbent upon the other side to disclose to us what legal positions they intend to take upon the papers presented before we open. I don't see any reason for changing the usual practice of this Court.

Judge BARNARD—If there is no objection you may present your arguments in the closing of the case.

Judge BARRETT—Mr. STRAHAN will present the opening of the argument, if desirable, if the other side will furnish him with a copy of the orders, so that he may have some sort of preparation, and let those who like commence on Thursday morning.

Judge BARNARD—If the testimony is all furnished by 12 o'clock to-morrow, and Judge BEACH is to go away next morning, then I think that the practice of the Court must be carried out.

Judge BARRETT—You can see the impossibility of any gentleman taking up a mass of papers, such as has been brought here, and standing up immediately after the close of their reading, and proceeding with an argument based upon them, without knowing in the smallest degree what his adversary intends to insist upon as a legal position, in reference to those papers. If Judge BEACH, at the close of the reading of the papers to-morrow, will proceed with his argument and give us such of the positions they take, then we will either open our case next day, and let the other counsel close, or we will carry out the usual practice of the Courts and close the discussion. But to go on to-morrow at the close of the reading of these papers, I would not do it myself, and I would not impose it on my associate—he could not do his client or the community generally justice.

Judge BARNARD—If the papers are so voluminous, and you cannot look them over after reading the testimony to-morrow, why not put it off for a week or ten days?

Judge BARRETT—That would be—

Judge BEACH—Allow me a word on this question of practice. With great respect, I do not think that the original ex parte application for an injunction is to be considered as the opening of the discussion on this motion of the complainant. We were not present, and we had no notice of the views or arguments on the law which were presented to your Honor on that occasion. If upon this—a new motion for the continuance of an injunction—your Honor holds that they have the opening, then I think it is clear that they should open the argument upon this motion after reading the papers.

Judge BARNARD—I can compel them to read the papers after the opening is concluded.

Mr. BEACH—If they make no opening by an adjournment we are not compelled to respond by argument, and if they choose to put that also in that attitude we acquiesce in that conclusion. From the importance of the legal questions involved, it seems to me desirable that there should be full discussion by counsel. But I do consider that we, as defendants, holding the affirmative upon this motion, should not be compelled to open the argument without any knowledge of the views or propositions which are intended to be discussed by the other side. It seems to me that this would be an entire departure from the ordinary order of debate in Court. Therefore I submit that if your Honor decides that they hold the affirmative of this motion, and if argument is to be had, they must open the argument and furnish us with the points on which they intend to rely.

Judge BARNARD—They are willing to do that, but they cannot go on to-morrow.

Judge BARRETT—Judge BEACH wants to go away to-morrow. He closes with the reading of the papers then. Why not make his argument then, and on Thursday morning Mr. STRAHAN will open the case on our side, and then Mr. O'GORMAN can follow?

Mr. BEACH—I might go on and make a speech now. I am quite indebted to your Honor for the courtesy and kindness of your suggestion; but I happen to have the interests of Mr. CONNOLLY to take care of in this case, and I don't want to abandon it until it is concluded. I don't want to be subjected to any embarrassment in the case.

Judge BARNARD—You had better get ready, Mr. BEACH.

Mr. O'GORMAN—The difficulty of accommodating the views of all the counsel in the case induces me to indorse the suggestions which fall from your Honor, to let the whole argument in the case stand over for some days until Mr. BEACH was disengaged and could attend. I see the difficulty of the counsel who are now present not being present when the case is to be argued. I wish they were altogether on that account.

Judge BARRETT—We don't consent to that. We will go on to-morrow at any rate.

Mr. O'GORMAN—I have no intention to press it.

Mr. BEACH—Very well.

The case was then set down for hearing at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Executive Committee of Seventy.

The Executive Committee of Seventy met at the Chamber of Commerce at 3 P. M. yesterday. The meeting, which was conducted within closed doors, was a highly important one. For confidential reasons it cannot be published at present, but at the proper time the Secretary will furnish the public with the facts of the matter. There were fifty-six members of the Committee present, and great enthusiasm prevailed. Col. H. G. STEBBINS presided, and Mr. ROSWELL D. HATCH acted as Secretary. Col. STEBBINS and Ex-Mayor HAVEMEYER were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions, which will be furnished to the newspapers in due time.

The Germans on Ring Rule.

The German Democratic Committee of the Fourth Ward met last evening at No. 445 Pearl-street, Mr. WEINHOLD presiding. The present confused condition of the local Government, owing to the corruption of its rulers, was discussed, and the action of the German Democratic General Committee, and of the citizens' mass meeting at the Cooper Institute was fully endorsed. Steps were taken for calling a public meeting of the Germans of the district to be held at an early day. Addresses in reference to these matters were delivered by Messrs. WEINHOLD, SCHMITZ, ROSCHE, REINSHEIMER, and others.

The General Committee of the German-American National Association, formed some months since under the auspices of the late Peace Jubilee Committee, will meet at the Germania Assembly Rooms this evening, when the crimes and corruption of our local rulers will form the principal topic of discussion. The Executive Committee and the Special Committee of twelve, appointed at the previous meeting for the purpose of looking into the condition of our City Government, will present a report this evening to the General Committee.

LONGUEIL REGATTA.

Preparations for the Race—Arrival of the Crews—Taylor-Winship Crew the Favorite.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The Longueil regatta will take place to-morrow on the St. Lawrence River, commencing about noon with a sailing match; after which they will have the four-oared race over a five-mile course, two and a half miles round a buoy and return. There will be probably only three starters for this race. The Renforth crew, the Taylor-Winship crew and the Barton crew, of Halifax. The latter arrived here on Monday evening, and left the same evening for Longueil, where they took up their quarters at PAQUETTE's Hotel, Chambly road. The Taylor-Winship and Renforth crews arrived from Saratoga this morning at 10½, and were received by Dr. NATMAN and Dr. BREWSTER, of the Longueil Boating Club, Major WALLACE, of the Lachine Club, and several other gentlemen. The Renforth crew went over to Longueil this afternoon, and took up their quarters at the Longueil House, and the Taylor-Winship men stop to-night at Lachine, and will shoot the rapids in the morning and proceed to Longueil, arriving in time for the regatta. The race will be rowed in quick time, as the crews will have a strong current against them one way. Great preparations are being made along the beach, and numerous booths and refreshment saloons have already been erected. The betting on this event has been very slight so far, but the Taylor-Winship men are the favorites, notwithstanding their recent defeat at Saratoga. On Thursday there will be a single-scull race. It abolishes all pensions except in cases of extreme poverty or where the grant was made for distinguished services.

The Committee of the Assembly has agreed to report in favor of a recess.

THE GERMAN EMPIRE.

The Negotiations at Gastein—Disappointment at their Ill-Success—The Roumanian Railway Question—The Bavarian Cabinet Crisis—German Confederation—Present Sentiment Toward France.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BERLIN, Saturday, Aug. 26, 1871.

However carefully the German official journals may disguise the fact, it is pretty plain that the interview between BISMARCK and Ratzer has not led to the desired result. It is useless to point to the residence of ministers and imperial councillors as most of the semi-official papers do, and to argue therefrom that all conjecture is still premature, or to remind the public that there remains nearly a fortnight for things to take a settled turn. After the loud flourish with which the Government organs ushered in the event which was to commence a new era, every triumph would have been proclaimed with as eager enthusiasm. The utter silence of the Provinzial Correspondenz, the first paper ordinarily to communicate official occurrences, is especially remarkable. The Correspondenz contents itself with simply recording the events occurring at Gastein in the manner of a Court circular, abstaining carefully from even the slightest reference to the negotiations. Other official journals either deny the supposed object of the meeting, adding that the good understanding with Austria aspired to by Germany has as far as was desired, been established long before the Emperors actually met, and that their interview was merely meant to set the seal of personal friendship to the political events. It requires a man of very poor memory to believe such talk as this after the hopeful programme sketched out some weeks ago, and the few things said about the universal blessings of an Austro-German alliance. There is much of the fox and the grapes in this official representation; the German advances have not been met in an equally friendly spirit, and it would be more honest to confess to at once, as our unofficial papers do. The official Press is doubtless justified in affirming that the question before the two Governments is neither Roumania, nor Ultramontanism, nor France, nor any other subject of narrow interest, but a general course of policy to be jointly followed by both countries, confronting the two, as it is the advantage at least of Germany to do, practically to one. The proposal is made more plausible to Austria by keeping German interests out of sight, and enlarging exclusively on Austrian gains. "Alone," says one of our ministerial papers, "Austria is half a State; if joined to Germany she two acquire the strength of four."

THE POLICY OF GERMANY.

The Frankfurter Journal, a well-informed Opposition paper, is more candid. It contends that it is Germany which desires the alliance, because it has in fresh remembrance the apprehensions existed by the doubtful attitude of the other Great Powers during the late war. It had no friend anywhere, at best lukewarm neutrals. It was successful, notwithstanding, but it may not be so next time, and common wisdom dictates the precaution of making sure of friends in the time of prosperity. Austro-Hungary is its most natural ally, being bound by common interests, partly by common descent and traditions, and chiefly because it is most dependent on Germany. Austria is, moreover, still a mighty nation, despite its defeat in 1866, and Germany is therefore willing to purchase its alliance by concessions. How far the Journal is right in the latter respect may well be doubted, for the proposals hitherto promulgated by the official Press make the offered alliance appear a very one-sided bargain, in which all concession was to come from the Austrian side. After the experiences of Versailles, perhaps no more was to be expected. Practically in the course of the negotiations some concessions appear to have been made by the German Chancellor. The Ultramontanes have first profited by the German advances to a Catholic Power, and next the Austrian Germans seem to have foregone all prospect of Prussian patronage. The altered bearing toward Roumania, having much loss of the clank of arms in it than at first, can hardly be called a concession, being merely a retreat from an untenable point.

RESULTS—A RUSSIAN THEORY.

But notwithstanding all these advances, and the gracious reception and friendly smiles of Emperor WILLIAM in the bargain, Count BEUST has escaped the proffered hand very coldly. The Prussian Press explains this—possibly not without reason—by a retrospect on the Prussian policy of the last decade, showing the Hohenzollern to have been faithless allies throughout. In 1864 Prussia, according to the Gaies, if I recollect right, somewhat perfidiously declared war to Denmark. To secure its victory it professed an entente cordiale with Austria. Victory gained, it kept the spoils to itself, and did not wait two years before declaring war to its former ally. In order to beat him, it made up to France, and discovered a very warm attachment for Emperor NAPOLEON. Austria being beaten, this pro-French ardor at once cooled, and soon changed into violent hatred, which led to the war of 1870 and 1871. France was not the only Power to suffer from the changeableness of Prussian affections; Italy, too, was an ally of 1866, to be thrown over as soon as it was no more wanted. Russia, the Russian paper adds, is the last to whom this experience applies. It was anxiously courted in 1870, but now it is no more needed, and the result is the proposal of an Austro-German alliance, which cannot be other than a threat to Russia. That things are not quite square between Russia and Germany is well exemplified by the altered tone in the Russian nationalist Press, characterizing particularly the organs of the War Minister, Prince MYLUTIN, and of the Crown Prince. Hitherto all unfriendly strictures on Germany were prohibited by special interdict of the Emperor. The Czar's return from Ems without seeing his uncle, and the colder tone in the intercourse between the two Courts, likewise points to an abatement of the former friendship. Recollections of 1864 and 1866 doubtless prompted, to some measure, Count BEUST's reluctance to commit himself to any distinct policy that might possibly have cost him the friendship of other Powers. The Germans still profess to be satisfied with the friendly assurances of Austria, but their manner shows that they appreciate the lukewarmness too plainly characterizing them. A disposition to cavil and find faults begins to manifest itself. The complaints of the Germans again meet a ready ear in the North, and the inner acts of the Southern Power are somewhat inconsiderately uncovered. Count BEUST is taunted with his unformed precarious position, and the frustration of the negotiations—confessed to make good the argument—is attributed to Ultramontane and Slavonian agitations with the object of upsetting him, the author of the dualist policy.

ANOTHER INTERVIEW.

The second interview of the Emperors is to take place not at Gastein, as was first proposed, but at Salzburg, on the 7th or 8th of September. The modification is ascribed to the disinclination of Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH to revive unpleasant recollections attaching to Gastein. Some even regard it as a piece of coldness on the part of the Austrian Emperor, and believe him to be cautioned by Russia and France against too ready an acceptance of the Prussian offers. The Austrian nobility has hardly warmed toward the German Emperor, and it is especially remarked that Count ANDRASSY, the Prime Minister of Hungary, has not stirred from his country-seat to welcome the illustrious visitor. He is to be present, though, at the meeting in Salzburg. If the visit to Gastein then has not been favorable to Germany, in its political aspect, it is satisfactory to learn from our official papers that it is medically a complete success, and His Majesty is verifying the most sanguine expectations of his medical advisers.

AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN PRESS SENTIMENT.

The Austrian and Hungarian papers do not appear themselves dissatisfied with the turn events have taken, and this possibly serves to confirm Government in its present course. The Pester Lloyd has intelligence that all informal affairs have been studiously kept out of the scope of the agreement supposed to have been reached, though it will not vouch for the fact of its having been made. Count BEUST is said to have warded himself well against Prussian intervention in his disputes with his German subjects, and to have refused any common action against the Infallibilists, which would have gone sadly against the inclinations of his chief. May, more, he seems to have successfully befriended the cause of the Northern Ultramontanes, if Prussia ever really intended them any harm.

THE BAVARIAN MINISTERIAL CRISIS.

The Opposition Bavarian has ended virtually in something remotely approaching a Prussian fiasco, for there can be no doubt that BISMARCK intended active intervention, but now he seems to have abandoned this project on account of his isolation. BEUST flatly refusing to exert diplomatic influence in the matter, and being unreservedly backed by England and Russia. The Weserzeitung, with more candor and justice than it is generally distinguished for, points out the weakness of the German case against Roumania, citing Prince BISMARCK's own words in illustration. When the Germans expelled from France, advanced exorbitant demands for compensation, for losses not only of real property but also for loss sustained in the conduct of business, the Chancellor returned the sensible reply that if they chose to settle for the purpose of making money in foreign States, they did so entirely at their own peril, and could not expect Government to make itself responsible for their success. He added that business embarked in by Germans in foreign countries had its fair equivalent for the greater risk in the greater profit, forming the chief inducement for the investment out of Germany. These words," says the Weserzeitung, "apply admirably and equally well to the Roumanian railway business. The victims of the German Concessionaries, Dr. STROUSBERG, the Dukes of RATIBOR and USEDE, and Count LEHNDORFF, may indeed gravely admit hopes on the conference of Gastein, but only very limited ones!" The Roumanian Post holding out a fair prospect of a peaceable settlement, explains why Government was absolutely compelled to sanction the bill which has led to all this quarreling. The animosity against Dr. STROUSBERG and his fellow-concessionaires is in consequence of the careless way in which they have constructed the railway, pocketed the gains long before its completion, and entailed a heavy loss upon the country—so violent that a refusal to sanction the bill which was intended to punish not the shareholders, but the constructors, would have inevitably led to serious disturbances. The Minister's dismissal, or the dissolution of the Chamber would only have made matters worse, and had Government not yielded to the popular voice, riots would have ensued, necessitating foreign armed intervention, and depriving Roumania of its political independence probably long before this. The warnings of foreign Powers have recalled to the mind of the population the serious consequences it involves, and will cause it to abandon its violent plans, though in opposition to its own sense of justice, and involving a heavy burden of national debt. The Post believes that this change in public opinion was to be expected, and that Prince CHARLES deserves the thanks of the country for arresting the impending blow, even though he has caused some heart-burning abroad.

THE BAVARIAN CABINET.

There is a matter of less European but almost equal German importance at present sharing the attention of the public, viz., the change in the Bavarian Cabinet. Like the finding of a King for the Greek and a Prince for the Roumanian throne, the search for a new Bavarian Ministry has lasted long enough to acquire something of the ludicrous in the eyes of the public. The portefeuilles have been offered to a great number of statesmen, and even now we hear that the Minister of Justice has been pressed into office against his will. The new Prime Minister, Count HEGENBERG DUX appears to have been almost as doubtful whether he should accept or no. He is an old man, past seventy, but is considered active and an able administrator. He is not pledged to any course in the infallibility question, and it was expected, therefore, that his appointment would alter the policy of his Government with regard to this question more than any other. However, the cultus Minister, M. VON LUTZ, remaining in office, ought in itself to have corrected this impression. If it failed to do so, the promulgation of the Ministerial programme could have no further doubt, and the general belief is now that Bavaria remains just where she was before the crisis. It is thus acknowledged that the policy to which the Prusso-German patriots objected was not the Minister's but the King's. The further to confirm this view the Ex-Prime Minister has not been dismissed with marks of displeasure, but is appointed to the very office which he most coveted, viz., the ambassadorship at Vienna. The prospect of having the Ultramontanes and the particularists gathering under the aegis of the Bavarian Government is no wise cheering to the popular party, and the opposition papers discuss the change not without a show of bitterness, concealed nowhere less than in Bavaria itself. The official papers make bonne mine au mauvais jeu, the Provinzial Correspondenz expatiating on the verbal tenor of the programme in terms of approbation. The promised "loyal fulfillment of all duties undertaken to the Empire, reconciliation at home, and administrative reform," if accepted in its widest sense, is all that could be expected of a patriotic Ministry, but when applied specially to Bavarian politics the terms appear far too general, if not expressing the direct opposite of what they seem to mean. "Reconciliation at home," above all, gives offense to the liberal Catholics and those national Liberals who scent foreign influence and opposition to German unity in the aims of the Ultramontanes. What they want is not reconciliation, but suppression and complete stamping out of the hated Romanism. Coming together with Count BEUST's pro-Catholic disclosures, and Prince BISMARCK's friendly language to the Ultramontane, or, as the Germans call it, the "black" party, this is a sad damper on the enthusiasm of the pro-Dollingerists. It is the more ill-timed, as agitations had just been set on foot to urge the "old Catholics" to anti-infallibilists to ostentatize completely from the Church of Rome and join the Protestants. That Government, either in Bavaria or in Prussia, should side altogether with the Ultramontanes is by no means presumable. On the other hand, it seems as little inclined entirely to set its face against them. Count HOHENLOHE's neutrality promises rather to be benevolent to the Church, and this cannot fail to give great support to the Catholics in the North, especially as their own Government is loth to break with them. With regard to the political position of Bavaria, "loyal fulfillment of all treaty obligations to the Empire," sounds very hopeless in the ears of German patriots. It is supposed to mean that what has been conceded at Versailles is to be strictly adhered to, "according to the bond, no more and no less," and that is an unwelcome announcement to Prussia, anxious to tighten the ties that it considered only a temporary and preparatory measure. The correctness of this interpretation is tolerably plainly proved by the attitude assumed by Bavaria in the late negotiations on military reform, and by the King personally, during the Emperor's presence. It would, however, be premature to accept the appointment of the new Cabinet as a permanent pledge for future action. It merely shows the King's own mind, indicating what great pressure it would require to reconcile him to the abandonment of his particularist ambition. Besides the royal pleasure, the Cabinet has no elements of stability in it, and though the weight of the royal crown may keep it in office for a length of time, it is by no means certain that it will do so if public opinion were to go dead against it. The basis of the Ministry is not a popular majority on either side, but a minority balancing between the two; the minority of what the Germans call "blue patriots," blue being the national color of Bavaria. It is not a party of action, but of temporising, not actually friendly to Romish influence, but averse to open opposition. A rallying-point were the Prussian alliance or break in two of the federation, but is reluctant to yield any particularist privileges for the common good. It is a party seeking to be friends with every one, and for that reason sure of making enemies on all sides.

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

There is one more subject that I consider it incumbent upon me to mention in this letter. The late occurrences in the French Chamber have very much shaken the confidence in M. THIERS' Government on this side of the Rhine, and the change is at once and clearly visible in the altered diplomatic intercourse between the two Governments, and the hostile language of the German Press. Prince BISMARCK again proves how dismounted he is to incur any risk whatever in the value of the pledges given by France. A change in the internal government of the defeated country is, in German eyes, tantamount to repudiation of its liabilities to Germany. However unamiable this view may seem, there is as much to be said for as against it. The organs of public opinion have not been slow to warn the Chancellor in the present instance, though the warning was hardly needed, and if the latest transactions between the Governments are characterized by a degree of caution often bordering upon harshness, the manner in which the papers discuss the situation is hardly more friendly. It is disheartening to witness how quickly the national animosity blazes up afresh on both sides on the slightest provocation. Our German papers talk of French vanity, greed, blindness, insanity, &c., as they did in the time of the war, and advocate a reoccupation of the abandoned provinces as a just punishment and a matter of course. It almost seems as if they were unwilling to lose their hold upon France, by accepting the indemnity and abandoning their territorial pledges, for the difficulties laid in the way of the French in the payment of the money by Prince BISMARCK's refusal to accept bills at long sight meet with general approval. Government has also adopted a somewhat severer tone toward the French and French sympathizers in Alsace-Lorraine. Profiting by the present weakness of the Versailles Government, Prince BISMARCK has exacted a promise from M. DE REMUSAT to discountenance and to the best of his endeavors to put down the "Ligue de la delivrance d' Alsace-Lorraine," which causes the Germans a great deal of trouble, by fostering old animosities, and drawing numbers of young men and boys out of the conquered provinces in order to train them to soldiers to reconquer their homes. Prussia has suppressed this patriotic emigration with more rigor than is approved in the provinces themselves. Many of the inhabitants having, in strict conformity with their right, decided in favor of retaining their French nationality, the Government has thought fit to proclaim that such persons remain in Alsace merely "on sufferance" and as strangers, and must not expect any protection from the German Government.

THE INTERNATIONAL.

Dissolution of the Neapolitan Section.

"The principal political event of the day," writes the correspondent of the Standard at Rome, "is the forcible dissolution of the Neapolitan Section of the International Society. The Ministerial order to this effect was received a few days ago by the Prefect, who, in pursuance of his instructions, caused the premises of the Society to be occupied during a meeting at which a hundred members were present. These meetings were held in a disused convent (San Severo, at Pendino), and the whole place was diligently searched for stores of arms and ammunition, seditious papers, and so forth, as it appears, without success—rather an unfortunate thing for the Government, which, when it next meets, will doubtless be called to account for the step it has taken. The members of the Society heard the Ministerial decree read to them, as the law requires, and then went home with great composure. The search was then continued at the lodgings of the President, one GIUSTINIANI, a noted manufacturer of porcelain-ware, and of the Secretary, SCHIRRENO, but with better result than in the premises of the Association. It is said, however, that these disappointments have a set-off in the importance of the discoveries more recently made in the house of a third member of the brotherhood, a person named CAPINSO, from Barletta. Among the documents found secreted on the person of CAPINSO's mother was a packet of letters from the Paris to the Central Committee in London. CAPINSO is a rich man, and fanatically devoted to the cause of the Parisian Communs. He was in Paris during the whole of the recent insurrection, and is not unreasonably suspected of being engaged in the production of an Italian adaptation of the last novelty devised by the brain of Europe. From a list which is brought to light in the course of the police investigations, it appears that the Society numbers about 1,500 adepts in Naples."

NEWS NOTES.

The correspondent of an English contemporary, writing from Homburg, says: "Many of your readers will remember Miss RAIMAN, the boy in the 'Ticket of Leave;' she has been thrown ere with a lady for some years. A few days ago she was taken ill, very ill; but three doctors agreed that there was 'a slight derangement—really nothing the matter.' Yet she died, poor thing, and then——. The proprietor of the lodging turned the corpse out of the house, and the authorities charged so much to bury it. (30.) that, but for the interference of one of the most distinguished—for wit—of the Sheridan set of members of the English Bar, the funeral would not have been decently performed. And this at Homburg, where English spend fortunes."

The Leipzig Gazette has a lengthy demand for the "restoration" of Heligoland to Germany. England is reminded that she first seized the island from Denmark, and not Germany, by the way, in order to make it a smuggling depot for British goods at the time (1807) when the Berlin decrees of the preceding year aimed at the total exclusion of our manufactures, except by the devious method of contraband. It is added that England was enabled to "withhold" the island from Germany in 1815, solely because Germany was not then united, and was not then "the Power of the first order," which it has since become. During the recent Franco-German war, it is hinted, England's alleged maintenance of blockade of the German coast, in reality, according to the Leipzig Gazette, through the circumstance that Heligoland was not German territory. Had it been German territory, it would have been strongly fortified, and the strong fortifications would have prevented French war vessels from anchoring under the lee of the island and French coal ships from enjoying a similar refuge. Heligoland, the Leipzig journal insists, is a sentinel at the embouchures of the Elbe, the Weser, and the Jahde, the three all-important rivers for commercial or military purposes of the north-west of Germany, and it becomes neither German safety nor German honor to allow a foreign Power to remain in such a position. The Leipzig Gazette adds that it would not recommend an immediate declaration of war against England for the possession of the few square feet of ocean rock. It designs, in the first place, that the Reichstag should make known by a unanimous vote that Heligoland was indispensable to Germany, when it doubts not that at the voice of that august assembly the prudlections of England far an "inalienable" portion of the Fatherland would be certain to disappear.

MGR. DE SEGUR lately published an essay entitled Vive le Roi! with the object of proving to France that its only salvation lies in a return to a Christian and legitimate Monarchy. He presented a copy of this work to the Pope, who sent him the following reply:—"Beloved Son!—Health and Apostolic benediction. We have received your new work with pleasure, and wish with all our heart that it may contribute in others the errors which you yourself, enlightened by the misfortunes of others, have repudiated. It is not, in fact, the impious sects alone which conspire against the Church and against society; it is also all those men who, granting that is entire good faith and righteous intentions, cherish the liberal doctrines which the Holy See has ever disapproved. These doctrines which favor the principles which have given rise to so many revolutions, are all the more pernicious because at first sight they appear generous. Gradually imbibing principles essential in fact take root in any but already corrupt minds, yet the principles which wear the cloak of patriotism and zeal for religion, principles which demonstrate the aspirations of honest men, easily seduce the good, and turn them, unknown to themselves, from true doctrines to lead them towards others continually acquiring larger developments and translating their ultimate consequences into deeds, ruin the whole social order and bring nations to perdition. It is certain, most beloved son, that if by means of your work you have the happiness of leading many to a better mind, who have hitherto been in error, your reward will be glorious. We wish you this grace with all our heart, and in the meantime, as a pledge of the blessing of God, as an attestation of our paternal benevolence, we lovingly grant you the apostolic benediction. PIUS IX. Given at Rome, the 31st of July, 1871, in the twenty-sixth year of our Pontificate."

Details of its Terrible Effects—A Man's Body Blown to Atoms—Heavy Loss of Life—Many Injured.

By the explosion of the boiler of the Curtis hat factory, on Merrimac street, Newburyport, Mass., on Monday morning, the boiler-house and the drying-room over it were blown into fragments, and two men were killed and five so seriously injured that they died soon after.

The people in the vicinity were startled at hearing a rumbling noise, like an earthquake, followed by a hissing sound, and timbers, bricks, slate, and débris of the ruin shot into the air to the height of one hundred and fifty feet. The whistle at the arms factory was sounded, and at the lower part of the town it was supposed that an alarm of fire, and some of the engine companies turned out. The side of the main building was blown in so that it was necessary to shore it up to prevent the whole structure from falling. The tall chimney of the factory was overturned, nearly the whole thickness of the lower part of the chimney being blown out. JAMES JACKSON was blown through the roof of the boiler-room, over the Curtis hat factory, and over the roof of the shoe manufactory of J. D. FISK & CO., a building five stories high, and his body was scattering his brains on the next house. He was an unmarried man, twenty years old. Within a few minutes large crowds collected, and the work of recovering the bodies of the dead and extricating the living was begun.

The scene after the accident was terrible. The friends of the workmen in the factory, fearing that some of their own might be among the victims, were crowding or running about distractedly, asking for information and examining the bodies as they were removed.

ALBERT PAGE was crushed beneath the falling bricks and terribly mangled, besides being badly scalded. When taken from the ruins an hour afterward his person was unrecognizable, and was only identified by a tax bill found in his pocket. He was twenty-two years old, a son of HENRY PAGE, and was to have been married to-day. BENJAMIN MACE, a married man forty years old, who so badly bruised by the falling bricks that he lived but a short time. He was sitting in the doorway of the boiler-room when the explosion occurred. CHARLES BOYLE, thirty-five years old, was dug out from under the boiler-room. He leaves a wife and three children. He was in the adjoining story of the boiler-house at the time of the accident. NICHOLAS PARALL, who was sitting in the doorway with MACE was badly disfigured. He was twenty-four years old. GEORGE ETHERIDGE, about thirty years old, was recently married. He lived about an hour after the accident. WM. PERKINS, seventeen years old, was badly scalded about the head, arms and chest. He lived in great agony about five hours. He was the son of NATHANIEL PERKINS. CHAS. W. HANDALL, twenty-six years old, was injured about the face, arms and hips, but not seriously. PHILIP ODETTE, son of PHILIP M. CURTIS, the superintendent of the factory, and several others who were in the main building, made their escape by jumping out of the second-story window, and some of them were slightly bruised. Of the killed, ETHERIDGE, JACKSON, PAGE and BOYLE were finishers; MACE and PARALL, wool curriers, and PERKINS, a carder.

It was unfortunate that the explosion occurred at the time it did, for a number of persons in the drying-room were changing their clothes preparatory to going to work. Had it taken place half an hour later, most of the hands, probably, would have been in the main building, and it is very likely there would have been no loss of life. As it was, the engineer was at his breakfast, and only a few of those who arrived before the time for beginning work were in the building. The finishers were in the drying-room over the engine-room, and the others were in and about the engine-room. The boiler was of the ordinary horizontal tubular pattern, was built at the Atlantic Works, East Boston, and has been in use but fourteen months. Its capacity was sixty-two horse-power. It had a guarantee of 150 pounds pressure, and it has often had a pressure of seventy pounds on the average. THOS. GOODWIN, who was cleaning the engine, which is in the main building, when the boiler exploded, says that a moment before there were two ounces of water in it and the steam-gauge indicated seventy pounds. The boiler burst nearly at one-third its length, separating where the sheets of iron were riveted together as cleanly as though it had been cut with a cold chisel. One section of it went through the base of the chimney, causing it to fall, and passed through the side of a small wooden building occupied by D. ROACHMAN as a brass-foundry. The other part tore into the side of the hat factory, taking out a large section of the wall from the eaves to the foundation, causing the second and third floors in that part of the building to partially fall and badly damage the machinery. The building is owned by JAMES BLOOD, and the damage to it will probably amount to $5,000. The loss of the hat company is estimated to be in excess of $5,000. About 100 persons—men, boys, and girls—were employed there. A jury was summoned by Coroner E. W. KAND, composed of HON. G. W. JACKMAN, Jr., Foreman; Rev. Dr. SPALDING, Messrs. AMOS NOYES, E. F. TUBBETTS, W. J. CURRIER, and CALVIN MARTIN, who will hold an inquest in Market-hall, beginning at 2 o'clock the afternoon. The catastrophe created great excitement in the city.

RAILROAD COLLISION.

Details of the Fatal Accident on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad—List of the Killed and Injured.

The Louisville papers give some additional information respecting the fatal results of the collision on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, on Thursday night last, at Randolph Station, seven miles from Louisville. Only one car was wrecked—the next to the rear coach on the New Orleans express, northward bound, due in Louisville at 1:05 P. M. Although the engine and the mail-train and three of its coaches were thrown from the track. All of the injured passengers were in this car, which was very full at the time, containing some forty passengers.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Three persons were killed—ABEL JOHNSTON, who was killed outright, and Dr. JAMES THOMAS and Mr. W. A. BUCHANAN, who each died in the hospital about four hours after the accident. Mr. JOHNSTON was from Thomasville, Thomas County, Georgia, and was on his way North to buy mules, having some $2,000 in his possession. His body, when found, was terribly mutilated, one leg being entirely torn off below the thigh, and his head nearly severed from the trunk. Twenty-four hundred and sixty dollars of the money belonging to him were found scattered near the body, which amount is now held by the railroad authorities, awaiting a claimant. Dr. THOMAS was from Rome, Ga., and was on his way to New-York, a through ticket to that City being found on his person. He was conversing with a friend, Mr. BUTLER, from Southern Georgia, as the car was struck. Mr. BUTLER, who was uninjured, went to Dr. THOMAS after the accident, and found him sitting up, but complaining of severe injuries in the head and internally. He was removed to St. Joseph's Infirmary after the arrival of the train bringing the wounded to Louisville, after which he was unconscious, and died at 2½ Friday morning of concussion of the brain. Mr. WM. A. BUCHANAN was formerly a resident of Jeffersonville, Indiana, and was on his way to the dying bed of his aged mother in that city. Only a few miles distant he received the summons of death first. Mr. BUCHANAN was from Ashford or Ashville, N. C. Of the wounded the Louisville Courier-Journal of Saturday thus speaks:

"Of the wounded taken to St. Joseph's Infirmary and now lying there, three or less severely injured, there is Col. ALEX. O. GRIFFITH, of the Nashville Union & American, was hurt in the head, back and side, but will be well enough to leave for home this morning. At noon yesterday the following dispatch was sent to his partner, Mr. IRA P. JONES: 'Mr. GRIFFITH is badly hurt, but much better. Don't be uneasy, but come on 3 P. M. train. Tell Mrs. GRIFFITH not to be uneasy.' Col. GRIFFITH was suffering much from concussion of the brain yesterday afternoon, but, in the opinion of the attendant physicians would receive no serious results therefrom. His little son, aged fourteen, who was sitting by his father, remained uninjured, which the child explains: 'Father jumped up when the noise came, but I held on tight to the seat.' Mr. JAMES SCOTT, a planter from Washington County, Mississippi, was on his way to meet his wife in this city for the purpose of making an extended tour through the Northern and Eastern States. He was severely injured in the head, receiving a scalp wound which extends entirely across the head. Mr. W. W. ANDERSON, a merchant of Forsythe, Ga., was on his way to New-York to purchase goods, slightly wounded in the head. Mrs. CYNTHIANA D. TUCKER, of Hillsboro, Coffee County, Tenn., widow of CLINTON TUCKER, formerly of that place, was on her way to Edgar County, Illinois. She was only slightly bruised in the body. JAMES WILSON, who is employed in the express car of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and resides in the southern portion of this city, was on his way home from Meridin County, Kentucky, where his wife resides, slightly bruised in his legs and had his eyes somewhat injured. ROBERT BRODIE, of Little Rock, Ark., was severely injured; also Mr. SMITH, wounded the attendant physicians think in a fair way for recovery. A number of those less severely injured went on on the arrival of the train, to the different hotels. At the Louisville Hotel last night were Col. MOTTLEY, of Bowling Green, Ky., and wife. Col. MOTTLEY received a severe cut in the head, while Mrs. MOTTLEY is suffering from several slight bruises about the head and body. Mr. R. A. ARMISTEAD, of Nashville, Tenn., received slight bruises in the head, and was severely hurt in the wrist, and is suffering much from concussion. Besides these, the following gentlemen were at the hotel, more or less injured: W. B. BUCK, Nashville; A. H. SMITH, Oakland Station, Ky.; A. J. KING, Bridgeport, Conn., and Capt. FASSLER, conductor on the Nashville Railroad, accompanied by his wife. No serious fears are entertained of the speedy recovery of any of these. It is estimated that some forty persons were wounded, more or less severely, all of whom, with the exception of those enumerated above, passed on through the city yesterday to their respective destinations. It was noticed as a curious coincidence that all of the wounded complained of pains in the neck. It is conjectured that those pains were caused by the sudden and violent jerking of the seats in the car when the coach was struck by the engine.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The Louisville Commercial this morning says that the cause of the accident:

"The conductor of the down-train No. 2 was W. H. HITT, and his engineer GEO. PARKER, driving the celebrated engine No. 29, which some time ago made famous in song and now wrecked and baptized in blood. The conductor of the up-train, No. 4, was W. H. CROZIER, and the engineer HIRAM PATRICK, a brother of the engineer on the other train. The two PATRICKS are regarded by the Company as the most faithful and reliable engineers on the road. They are probably the oldest engineers on the road. The conductors stand well, are regarded as reliable, watchful men by the officials, and never have been known to neglect or disregard the rules of the road. The down-train left the depot at 9:45 P. M., thirteen minutes late. On account of the train being late, the meeting-point was arranged to be at Randolph, when their regular crossing was at Old Depoint, two miles further south. This was the understanding by the men on both trains. The train north-bound was delayed, however, encountering two flat cars, which it proceeded to push forward on the track, leaving the two rear cars of the train on the main line. The south-bound train came rushing down at the rate of eighteen or twenty miles an hour, and the engineer, when the rear end of the smoking-car, about three feet, struck the down-train right off the track. It then struck the next car—the ladies' car—fairly in front, crushing it in, and throwing the car eight feet from the track, where it was upset. The next car—the last car—was broken loose and thrown back about 400 feet by the concussion. The locomotive of the down-train, after the collision, caught the down-bound train so jump from the rails and throw the rear end of the smoking-car, the express and baggage cars were thrown into the ditch on the left side of the road, twelve feet distant. They struck the telegraph poles, and so mixed the wires that no communication could be had. The front end of the smoking-car was thrown down the bank, the rear end remaining on the track. The forward trucks of the coaches were thrown from the track. The track is straight for several hundred yards, with a slight down grade. The country is low and flat, and the track is elevated some four feet above the land adjacent. The night was dark and foggy, objects often visible at a distance could not be perceived.

A young man connected with the road was looking out of the window of the smoking-car and saw the approaching down-train. Anticipating a collision, he jumped out on the left side and escaped unhurt. He was the first to reach the wreck, and, in company with a prostrate man, who spoke, and a few feet further, he saw a man and woman on the bottom of the car, their faces covered with blood; the man appeared to be unconscious, while the lady was holding the bloody head in her lap. The scene was horrible and cannot be described. The car was terribly demolished, and almost every seat being torn from its fastenings. The wounded were placed in coaches made up from both trains, and were brought to the depot about 1 o'clock, where medical assistance had been provided. The wounded were removed as carefully as possible to carriages and other vehicles, and conveyed to the Infirmary, or different hotels, private houses, &c., in close proximity after the arrival of the train with the dead and a portion of the wounded. Mr. J. G. WHITCOMB, road-master, with a train of six coaches, left for the wreck, and returned at 4 P. M. with the remainder of the passengers, nearly all of whom were slightly wounded. Several messages came in the morning enquiring for the safety of passengers by the train. They deemed to take the wounded victims into their vehicles, because their blood might defile the upholstery. One fellow who had been brought into the depot ran out to drive away without a load, when he was pursued by an employe of the Company, who threatened to take his pass from him if he declined to take the unfortunate person to his destination.

A NOVEL LAW SUIT DECIDED.

Judgment Against Otto Kloppenburg, City and County Treasurer of San Francisco, by Default—A Shrewd Transaction.

From the San Francisco Alta, Sept. 3.

On the 14th of July, 1870, JOHN ANDERSON commenced a suit in the Twelfth District Court against OTTO KLOPPENBURG and JOHN DOE, the details of which will be found interesting. Last Friday, the 1st instant, the case came up before Judge MCKINSTRY, when the action was dismissed as against JOHN DOE, and a decree ordered for the plaintiff against KLOPPENBURG. The complaint sets forth that the plaintiff had contracted to sell and convey to one FREDERICK B. STROH the property known as the Kanaka mine, situated in the County of Sierra, State of California. The property is described in the complaint.) For the purpose of effecting the sale, the plaintiff took from the City of New-York to his attorney in San Francisco his deed of the premises, with instructions to deliver the same to STROH, upon the execution by STROH of a mortgage upon the premises to secure to the plaintiff the sum of $20,000, part of the consideration of the deed. The defendant, KLOPFENBURG, had notice of the premises, and was jointly interested with STROH in the contract of purchase, and in order to enable STROH to execute and deliver the mortgage, transferred and assigned to STROH all his (the defendant's) interest in the said contract. Whereupon STROH, on the 4th of June, 1870, executed the mortgage to KLOPFENBURG, and with his full knowledge and concurrence, executed and acknowledged, and caused to be duly certified, his (STROH's) mortgage upon the above-named premises, bearing date June 4, 1870, and conditioned for the payment of the promissory note of STROH to the plaintiff, or order, for the sum of $20,000 in gold. That thereupon the plaintiff's attorney gave the deed to STROH, with instructions to have the same recorded in the Recorder's office of the County of Sierra. He delivered the mortgage immediately to WELLS, FARGO & CO., with instructions to cause the same to be recorded in the Recorder's office of Sierra County. WELLS, FARGO & Co. committed the mortgage to Downieville by the ordinary railroad and stage routes, by which the United States mail and express matters are then conveyed, and on the 8th of June, 1870, it was duly recorded in the Recorder's office.

The defendant, KLOPFENBURG, after the execution of the mortgage, caused STROH to execute and deliver to him unstead and subsequent mortgage upon the same premises, bearing date the same day, and purporting to mortgage to him (KLOPFENBURG) the premises to secure the payment of $20,000, and thereupon KLOPFENBURG, in order to attempt to defeat and defraud the plaintiff of his prior rights, and to get money, obtained from STROH the possession of the deed, sent a messenger by special and extraordinary conveyance to Downieville with the said deed from plaintiff to STROH, and the mortgage from STROH to KLOPFENBURG, and caused them to be recorded before the plaintiff's mortgage, namely, December, on the 9th of the same month. The defendant KLOPFENBURG pretended to assign, and now claims to have assigned and transferred, for a valuable consideration the last mortgage to the defendant DOE, and the defendants claim that the defendant DOE, at the time of the pretended transfer, had notice of the mortgage made by STROH to the plaintiff, and the pendency of threatens to assign and transfer the mortgage to other persons. The plaintiff alleges that the assignment of the mortgage to DOE was without any consideration, and that the defendant DOE had notice at the time of the prior execution of the plaintiff's mortgage; that the assignment was made by KLOPFENBURG for the purpose of defeating and defrauding the plaintiff of its prior rights. The plaintiff further alleges that the sum of $20,000 recited in the mortgage and assumed to be paid by STROH to KLOPFENBURG is not in fact due or owing by STROH to KLOPFENBURG, nor any part thereof, but was wholly nominated and pretended debt. The plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants; that the mortgage made by STROH to plaintiff be adjudged to be prior and superior to that made by the defendant KLOPFENBURG, and a proclaim upon the mortgaged premises, and for such further relief as to the Court may seem proper. The case was called on the 12th of September, 1870, when an order of default was entered against the defendant, OTTO KLOPFENBURG. Last Friday it was decided by the Court as stated above.

A Clergyman Accused of Seduction and Attempted Abortion.

The Court of Beaver County, Pennsylvania, was occupied a portion of last week in the trial of Rev. WILLIAM M. WHITE, formerly pastor of a Presbyterian church in the neighborhood of Beaver, who was charged with seduction and attempt to produce an abortion, the the young lady being Miss JANNIE SCOTT, whose social standing and connections have been high and unimpeachable until the present unfortunate affair was brought to light. The Pittsburg Dispatch says that Mr. WHITE, while stationed in Beaver, boarded at a house kept by the aunt of Miss SCOTT, Miss SCOTT also being an inmate. It is alleged that Mr. WHITE, who is an unmarried man, was attentive to the girl, and an intimacy sprang up between them. Some of the friends of the girl noticed it, and the matter was brought before the Presbytery for trial, it also being charged that Rev. WHITE had attempted to procure an abortion, but Miss SCOTT herself appeared and represented that there was no truth in the allegation, and for a time both her character and the character of the clergyman were fair again before the world. Notwithstanding this, the girl subsequently and the charge was true, whereon she was prevailed upon to appear before a Magistrate and make an information against Rev. WHITE "for unlawfully administering drugs" to her "with intention to procure the miscarriage of said woman." This she averred was done from time to time between the 8th of September, 1869, and the 8th of January, 1870.

Mr. WHITE was deposed from the ministry by the Presbytery last Fall, and the Grand Jury afterward found a true bill of indictment against him. The case was given to the jury on Thursday night last, and after a long and exciting session, disagreed, standing, it is said, eight for conviction and four for acquittal. Miss SCOTT was the first and chief witness examined on the trial, and deposed that he accomplished her ruin under promises "if anything went wrong he would marry her." Mr. WHITE has heretofore borne an excellent character, and it is but fair to say that he denies the charge in toto, and especially the accusation that he attempted to procure an abortion.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Judge Porter.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

You refer this morning to a story

PERSONAL, POLITICAL, AND GENERAL.

A Japanese scholar has entered one of the public schools of Boston.

Col. JOHN FORNEY, of the Mobile Register, has been compelled by the state of his health to take a brief vacation, and is coming North.

Hon. DAVID A. WELLS is by invitation to address the Springfield, Mass., Revenue Reform League.

A boy in Philadelphia, playing with a gun on Monday afternoon, shot and probably fatally wounded his sister, a girl sixteen years old.

The Palatka (Fla.) Herald reports that between the 12th and 20th of August last, over twenty-one inches (21.100) of rain fell there.

A maid in Washington, N. C., has procured a license to marry his Fifth wife. He is seventy-nine years old, and the bride twenty-three.

Accepting the amendments is what killed the Democracy of California, unless the Savannah (Ga.) Republican is grievously mistaken—as it probably is.

Hon. ALEX. H. H. STUART says that iron ore has been found in Augusta County, Virginia, in sufficient quantity to supply the wants of the State for many years.

The Bunker Hill in Charlestown, Mass., which it is proposed to level, is not the one on which Bunker Hill Monument stands. That is one of the overlooking hills.

The Boston Transcript says that three of the most eminent lawyers in Massachusetts have given opposite opinions that the State tax on the national banks is unconstitutional.

A huge bonfire is to be built on the top of Mount Washington this evening. If the night is clear it is expected the beam will be distinct on the coast, and visible from elevated points over a large portion of New-England.

Mr. WENDELL PHILLIPS has found some obstacles to command. It is the New-Jersey Railroad which during the last thirty-seven years had transported over seventy millions of persons, without loss of life or limb to anyone inside the cars.

The Providence Journal does not favor the proposed changes in the Constitution of Rhode Island for the enlargement of the suffrage, but it desires that they shall be deliberately decided upon by the people, and consequently, that there will be a full vote on the 4th of October.

President BROWNE, of the Eastern Railroad Company, says the last Fall Superintendent FREMONT, at his request, gave him an estimate of the number of new cars the road would need this year, and that they had, in fact, put upon the road two more new cars, prior to the accident at Revere, than were called for in that estimate.

It has proved that the lady seen in Boston by two residents of Troy was indeed Miss ANNA HIGBIE, the missing dress-maker, of that city. Her brothers-in-law found her on Tremont-street, on Sunday afternoon. It is not known why she went to that city. She has no relatives or friends there, and has never had any business transactions with its merchants.

A gentleman once visited the State Library, of New-Hampshire, wishing to consult Jefferson's Notes on Virginia. The Librarian, who was elected to his office because he was a Democrat, fumbled about the shelves for a while, and then said, to the applicant: "I cannot find them, and I presume Mr. JEFFERSON took them up before he died."

Gov. HOFFMAN will open the Industrial Exhibition, in Buffalo, on Monday next, and on Wednesday he will deliver the opening address of Wyoming Agricultural Fair, in Warsaw. He has declined the offer of Col. WISE, of the Seventy-fourth Regiment, of a military escort, in the event that his visit to Buffalo will be on parade-drill business.

The Boston Advertiser speaks approvingly of a suggestion that S. G. CLEVELAND, of the Penn Yan Democrat, and ROSSER BARNUM, of the Geneva Courier, receive nominations on the Republican State ticket. It says they are both imbued with the old-fashioned notions of honesty, and it will be glad if either or both shall be placed in a position to receive the suffrages of the Republicans of the State.

A Convention of the Committees of Conference, appointed by the State Temperance Society, the Grand Lodge of Good Templars, and the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, together with all other temperance and reform organizations favorable to local prohibition, is to be held in Syracuse on the day before the assembling of the Republican State Convention. The movement does not contemplate a separate organization.

Gov. HALSTED, of Kansas, says there are in that State millions of acres of good land to be had under the provisions of the Pre-emption and Homestead laws, and that Chief of that lands are now of actual settlers at $1 25 per acre. In portions of the State which have been longest settled, good unimproved lands can be purchased by any one for price ranging from $5 to $20 per acre. Of course near large towns prices rule higher.

At the recent anniversary of the Orinda Baptist Association, the Utica Herald says: a visiting clergyman, old enough to be gray, but with raven locks and beard, offered several resolutions touching questions of debate, and the Fathers, to their credit be it said, saw no objection to the adoption of the resolutions, but he wished the end in view was of tobacco might be followed by one depreciating the use of hair-dye. The reformer stood upon this.

The colossal bronze statue of President LINCOLN, in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, is to be unveiled and dedicated on Friday, 22d inst.

An address will be made by Prof. C. J. STILLE, President of the Monument Association, and an oration delivered by Gen. WM. MCMICHAEL. Invitations have been sent to the President of the United States and heads of Departments, the Governor of the State, Mayor of the City, Park Commissioners, Select and Common Councils, and other officials. The military have also been requested to parade, and the exercises will close with a banquet.

A horse attached to a carriage in a funeral procession in Rochester, on Sunday, became frightened at a point on the highway where the embankment is from sixteen to twenty feet high, and, jumping to one side, dragged the carriage and its occupants down the declivity, the hack overturning two or three times in its descent. After the unfortunate mourners were taken from the vehicle, it was found that Rev. P. HARRIS, pastor of the Lutheran Church, had one of his legs broken above the knee, and a lady was bruised and cut about the head and body. Two other occupants of the carriage were injured slightly.

The Philadelphia Press describes an interesting and curious locality in Eastern Pennsylvania known as "The Ringing Rocks," or more popularly, "The Ringing Hill," situated about three miles east of Pottstown, Montgomery County. It takes its name from a huge mass of dark-colored stones, varying in weight from a few pounds to many tons, situated upon the brow of a hill and extensive hill covered with cedars and oaks. The peculiarity of these rocks is that upon being struck with a hammer or stone they ring with a clear and prolonged sound. One rock forth in sound like that produced by a stroke upon an anvil; another one that resembles a clear-sounding bell; another, the prolonged roar of a distant chime; still another the hawser and dollar worn of the old smith's hammer.

The corrupt example of the Ring is being further followed, unless the Syracuse Standard has been misinformed. That journal says: "Rumors of an authentic nature reach us of such transactions at the Auburn Prison, in which prominent officials of that State institution are implicated. It is reported that not long since the authorities in charge of the State Prison purchased a hundred barrels of beef at Fort Byron at $9 50 per barrel. Soon after an officer in authority inquired of the clerk if he had made out the vouchers for that beef. On receiving a negative reply, he told the clerk to make out the vouchers at $12 per barrel. The next day he again asked the clerk if the vouchers for that beef had been made out, and, being informed that they had not, he directed the clerk to make them out at $15 per barrel. On the following day he again asked the clerk if the vouchers were made out, and on receiving an affirmative answer, told the clerk to destroy them and make out the vouchers at $16 50 per barrel."

The Republican State Central Committee of Virginia have issued an address to the people in view of the election to be held in November, in which they make a general statement of party issues, recount how much the Republican organization has done for Virginia and the Union, and finally show that the true, honest and renowned Democratic Party of Virginia has dropped every principle from its platform but the principle of Sale.

A weekly newspaper in this State tells the following: "Mr. BEATTIE, now an engineer on the Montgomery Branch Railroad, says that as he was once driving the engine of the Cincinnati Express train No. 8 up the mountain, it seemed to him as he rounded the rocks just before entering the great cut at Otisville, that some one said to him as plain as words could speak it, 'Shut off.' He looked around to see if his fireman had spoken to him, but as that individual was leaning with his head out of the cab it was evident he had not. Mr. BEATTIE prepared to dismiss it when a second time, as plainly and distinctly as before, he heard the warning voice. 'Shut off.' Without further delay he at once pushed the throttle-valve clear in, and shut the steam entirely off. Of course, as the train was going up a rising ground it at once slacked its speed, not a moment too soon, for around the rocks was the rear end of a freight-train slowly toiling up the grade. As it was the two trains struck each other, but so slightly as to cause no damage, and but little delay. The same thing induced another engineer, familiarly known as 'Old Buttermilk,' to stop No. 9 in Graycourt just in time to avoid running into a wreck, one dark night, a year or two ago."

Marrying a Married Woman.

A case of alleged bigamy was tried before Judge BENEDICT, at the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, the accused being JOHN RAYMOND, who was charged with having married JOSEPHINE SACKS while CELIA BAKER, his first wife, was living. The latter woman testified that the prisoner deserted her after living with her ten weeks and took up with Miss SACKS. On cross-examination she admitted she had been married and divorced before she saw REYNOLDS. Her divorce was obtained for her by a lawyer to who she gave $25, and who pretended to have got it from Chief-Justice Johnson Court; and who was powerless to obtain divorces. She said that she had destroyed the paper and had forgotten the name of the lawyer. The prisoner was discharged on the ground that his wedding CELIA BAKER was not a criminal act under the statute, as she was a married woman at the time. Judge BENEDICT said that he regretted he could not punish the rascality of the gulled lawyer in order to punish him.

Department of Public Parks.

At the meeting of the Commissioners of the Department of Public Parks, yesterday, ten communications were read, offering donations to the Park Museum. A resolution was passed directing that the roadway of Seventh-avenue, north of Central Park, be completed with a telford and Macadam pavement. The Chief Engineer recommended the opening of One Hundred and Fifty-fourth-street, from Tenth-avenue to McComb's Dam road, and a resolution was thereupon adopted ordering this to be done as soon as the land is so acquired. Resolutions were passed authorizing the improvement of that portion of One Hundred and Twenty-second-street lying between Sixth and Seventh avenues.

TUESDAY, Sept. 12—P. M.

The Gold sales were less firm than yesterday, although opening at 114⅛ ₱ cent. The range of transactions were at 114⅛@114⅜@113⅞@114⅛@114⅜ ₱ cent. The Custom-house demand was $702,000, yet the Cash deliveries in the Gold Room were made at a comparatively small bonus for the use of the Gold until to-morrow. The scarcity, however, continues to affect the foreign Exchanges, which are almost unsaleable for Cash Gold, except on the basis of 108@108¼ on London.

In the Money market there is really no perceptible change from the cheap rates, on call loans of the last six or eight weeks, but at Bank there is more doing in Discounts, and the sales are more generally 7 ₱ cent. to regular mercantile dealers than at lower figures. Trade is so active and prosperous that little or no complaint is made by this class of borrowers when the full rate of 7 ₱ cent. is charged at Bank.

In Wall-street the condition of affairs around the City Hall has more or less depressing effect on the Stock market, although the early sales of the Railways on the Stock Exchange this morning were something firmer than on Monday, and so continued until after 2 o'clock. It is not yet known how far the speculators connected with the Tammany Ring, or what amount of Erie, Cleveland and Pittsburg, Hannibal and St. Joseph, &c., they have hypothecated in and around the Street and with the Tammany Banks uptown, but that this class of speculators will soon have to look about for other means of carrying their favorite Stocks seems not improbable. In most of the New-York and Western Roads the feeling is moderately confident. The Wabash Stock jumped up to 67¼ ₱ cent. at one time this morning. The Executive Committee of the Lake Shore Company have solicited proxies for the Wabash election, and this is construed to mean war upon Mr. J. BOODY and his old colleagues, thus leaving the result of the election in sufficient doubt to create a lively time in the Stock. There was not much interest in the Miscellaneous Stocks today. Western Telegraph was firmer in the forenoon.

The Public Funds were ⅛@¼ lower, when Gold fell below 114 ₱ cent., but in the afternoon the demand was steadier. There was a large demand from the Savings Banks for the currency 6 ₱ cents. at 116 ₱ cent., and for the long 6 ₱ cents. of 1881, as well as the 5-20s of 1867. Some of the best of these bonds are very wisely strengthening their position by increasing their investments in the Public funds, feeling that the whole system has been endangered by trusting the City and County Bonds, created ad libitum by the Tammany Ring, and by lending at call on other Stocks less reliable than United States Bonds in case of emergency.

After the late Boards the Railways were depressed, and a bearish feeling pervaded the market, which closed as follows, compared with Monday night. The Gold speculators bid up the price of Gold for the morrow to 114⅛@114⅜ ₱ cent., and were offering a bonus for the use of a million or more on Wednesday, thus confirming the hint which we threw out yesterday that a squeeze is to be made on the Cash Gold on the eve of the Treasury sale:

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., with a general agency at No. 137 Broadway, advertises that they hold $28,500,000 assets against their outstanding Policies. The concern has been established about a quarter of a century. Of their present assets only about eight per cent. is invested in the Public Funds of the United States, which strikes us is less than a concern of so much importance ought to hold to be strictly in accord with sound banking. The Mutual Life of this City has drifted into the same error, and of this the Equitable has unfortunately taken pattern by running altogether on other and less available securities in consequence. The following are the aggregate assets of New-York Life Insurance Companies and the ratio invested in United States securities on 1st January, 1860, and 1st January, 1871, respectively, carefully compiled from the reports in the Insurance Department at Albany:

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

7 ₱ CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND-GRANT BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY,

IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can now be had from the undersigned or through the principal banks and bankers of the United States. The attention of investors is invited to the merits of these bonds, secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, equipments, franchises, and property of a trunk line of railroad which will shorten the distance between New-York and San Francisco some 330 miles, and in addition to the mortgage to secure the bonds covers a land-grant of 1,500,000 acres of the most fertile land in the West, which is prohibited from being sold at less than four ($4) dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage deed, and according to the present market price of the Illinois Central Company's lands is worth $18,750,000. This loan was originally for $6,500,000, but has been largely reduced by subscriptions of actual investors. The remaining balance of the loan is offered at 97½ and accrued interest, but the right is reserved to advance the price at any time, without notice.

The bonds have thirty years to run; bear 8 per cent. interest, payable in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, free of taxes. BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE PAYABLE IN GOLD. They are Coupon Bonds, but can be registered with the coupons on, or can be registered with the coupons off, and interest paid to registered owner. Interest payable Aug. 15 and Feb. 15. A liberal sinking fund, formed from the entire land sales, in payment for which the bonds will be received at par and accrued interest, provides for the early extinguishment of this loan.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

Parties desiring to fund their Five-Twenties or other high-priced securities,

In converting Five-Twenties the investors realize 17 per cent. profit on the principal; 2 per cent. per annum excess of interest; and at the same time a perfect security.

Maps, circulars, documents, and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted at its end attached interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

☞ We beg to state that we shall shortly publish, in a cheap pamphlet form, in English and German, the proofs we have submitted during the past few weeks of the City frauds. The successive copies from the Controller's books, checked and revised by the official accounts sent in to the Board of Supervisors by Mayor Hall, together with the particulars of the "armories swindle," and the numerous other frauds committed under the "Ring of Four," will be arranged in a perspicuous and handy form. A totally new introduction to these reports will be written, and explanations given which will bring the history down to the present time. This pamphlet will have a very large circulation all over the Union—over 150,000 copies are already ordered. We can print only a few pages of short advertisements in this pamphlet, and it will be necessary to send in notice early of any applications for this space. We are also ready to receive orders for the pamphlet.

The Maryland Republicans, in Convention, yesterday, at Baltimore, unanimously nominated Hon. JACOB TOME for Governor. ALEXANDER RANDALL and LAWRENCE J. BRENGLE were placed on the ticket for Attorney-General and Controller. Resolutions indorsing the Administration of President GRANT and the record of the Republican Party were also adopted.

The election returns from California report a Republican majority in the State Senate and Assembly, and further state that there is every reason to think that a Republican United States Senator will be elected. The Tax-payers have a majority in the San Francisco City Government.

At the Lexington races, yesterday, Longfellow won the two-mile heats, making the distance in 3:38¾, 3:37¾. The second race (three-quarter of a mile dash) was won by HARTRAFT. Time, 1:18¾.

The victory of the Ward crew in the Saratoga regatta was a general topic of remark in England yesterday. Some of the journals expressed the opinion that the race was won by the WARDS because of the stake-boat arrangement, which has been discarded in England.

Shall and Sweeny as Dictators.

In the history of conspiracies nothing more scandalous or insolent is recorded than the attempt of HALL and SWEENY to save themselves by dealing a treacherous stab at TWEED and CONNOLLY. There is not a pin to choose between these men. They have all been engaged in the same transactions. As we have shown in another column, HALL has very recently gone out of his way to vindicate the character of Controller CONNOLLY. HALL and SWEENY are a great deal more crafty and deceitful than TWEED and CONNOLLY, and that is substantially the only difference between them. The public are now asked to be parties to a compromise which would perpetuate all the evils of the system under which we live. SWEENY is the head and front of the Tammany organization. He is the artful Dodger of the gang—scowning, unscrupulous, treacherous plotter, ever sneaking in the background and pushing others forward to do the dirty work. He now strikes at two of his confederates, like an assassin under a mask, and expects the community whom he has plundered and betrayed to keep his fingers at their purse-strings, in return for the great favor which he does them of throwing TWEED and CONNOLLY overboard. We are to get rid of the tools and keep the masters in power. A sop is thrown out to the public which they are expected to swallow, and then to go on being robbed as before. The Herald, prompted as usual by HALL, had the impertinence to say, yesterday, that "the people feel that they can trust the City Government in the hands of HALL, SWEENY and HILTON." We wish the people could vote on that as a test question to-morrow. The Herald would find that it knows no more of public opinion in this crisis than an eyeless fish in the Mammoth Cave.

Unless we sadly misinterpret the feeling of the hour, the people will not be insulted by these dishonorable and ruinous proposals. No compromise can be accepted. Has not the Herald been saying all along that there was no truth whatever in the charges brought against the Ring? With what face, then, can it come out suddenly and assert that CONNOLLY and TWEED are guilty? Guilty of what? If the charges are groundless, why should CONNOLLY resign? If they are true, why should CONNOLLY resign any more than SWEENY, who is an artful knave, instead of an open one, or instead of HALL, who has taken an equal part with CONNOLLY in every transaction which has been accomplished under the rule of the Ring? Can one man sign a series of fraudulent warrants and be guilty, and another man sign them and be innocent? HALL'S means of information were as good as CONNOLLY'S. He knew what he was about when he signed the INGERSOLL warrants. He has this advantage on his side, that he is a wily lawyer, while CONNOLLY is a rough politician. "My official acts," says CONNOLLY in his letter to HALL, "have been supervised and approved by your superior vigilance. So far as my administration is questioned, equal responsibility attaches to yourself. In your answer and affidavits, read in the pending litigation, you have adopted and vindicated these acts. You could not justify yourself without so doing"—in other words, the Controller alleges, and with justice, that HALL has been a party to the very acts for which he calls upon CONNOLLY to resign. But HALL, in reality one of the very worst of the Tammany gang—the author of the infamous "Code Amendments," which proposed to gag the Press, and of the 16th of July order, which shocked and disgusted every true American—thinks that he can still befool the public. Yesterday he had Mr. AUGUST BELMONT in his rooms ready to put into CONNOLLY'S place. A veneer of respectability was to be laid over the Controller's office. The chief knaves were to skulk behind the door, while Mr. BELMONT was to issue a series of "reports" in their favor. The Herald and the World would once more blackguard CONNOLLY and TWEED, and assure the public that really there was no cause to distrust those [illegible] SWEENY and HALL. Was [illegible] a plot of ones so desperate and [illegible]? Does HALL suppose that the whole of this community are as unscrupulous and as bare-brained as himself?

The fact is, that these two schemers, HALL and SWEENY, assume to dictate terms to New-York in the spirit of conquerors of a city. They say, "We will throw out two of our number to stop your cries, but we insist on being retained to drive the good further into your necks." What reply but one can the public make to this brazen demand? Are the big rogues to escape after all? If so, there is an end to all hope of reform—an end to all hope of arriving at the truth respecting the lamentable condition of the city. Two hundred million dollars of debt, and the men who were chiefly instrumental in running it up expect to remain in power, as a reward for acting the part of cowardly traitors toward their confederates! Public honor must be dead before such a shameless compromise can be accepted. The whole pack must go. SWEENY, the Mephistopheles of the gang, must be among the first to be driven out of place and power. He has filled the City offices with his worthless relatives. He has had his arms thrust to the elbows in every dirty job. And to think of keeping a sly rascal like this in a post of honor, while his dupes are kicked out, only because they are less cunning than himself! The plan may do for HALL, but it will not go down with the public. We must have the whole of this vile crew exterminated. Better that the work should not be done at all, than that it should only be half done. We can make an end of this wicked tribe now, and we must do it, unless we want to see property mortgaged to its full value, and the credit of the City utterly broken down. Having put our hands to the plow, is this a time to look back?

"From California to Maine."

The result of the election in Maine fully confirms the promise given by the early returns. The little state has not many large cities in it, and the exact majority for the Republican ticket can only be ascertained after patient waiting; but enough is known to render it certain that with a total vote somewhat larger than that of last year, the Republicans have made decided gains. The majority is not less than 10,500; twenty-nine out of thirty-one Senators are secured; the three largest cities in the State show heavy Republican gains, and, from present appearances, not more than one county is Democratic. "From California to Maine" is a favorite phrase to denote the extent of our continent and its extremes, not only geographically, but in point of habits and occupation. The two States are hardly less wide apart in the latter than in the former respect. But they are alike in one thing—they turn a deaf ear to the Democracy. For the past year the Democratic journals and orators all over the country have never tired of railing at the National Administration. Besides vague denunciation, which was necessarily vague because there was nothing in definite fact to base it on, they have adopted every putiful personal slander, every idle story started by disappointed greed or foiled corruption, and in addition still to these have invented horrible bugaboos about the President's malignant hatred of free institutions, and his purpose to seize dictatorial power and rule by the bayonet. Chaff of this wretched kind has been whipped, over and over again; and, blinded by the dust they have raised, the Democratic Presses have been boasting of a great popular reaction against Gen. GRANT and the Republican Party. Well, the people have spoken at the two opposite sides of the continent, and where is the reaction? On the Pacific, the Democratic Party has been tumbled heels over head out of both executive and legislative branches of the State Government, and from having two out of three of the Congressional delegation, is left without a single representative. On the Atlantic, it has been stripped of the small gains it made last year, and while straining every nerve to take advantage of the apathy of its opponents, has found the people still more indifferent to its own efforts. The Democratic Party will, perhaps, learn after a few more such lessons that the great obstacle in the way of its winning popular confidence is its own bad character. Until it ceases to be reactionary, corrupt and treacherous, it will not be listened to.

Reminiscences for Oakey Hall.

A brief retrospect of recent events will show that the Mayor is himself responsible for saddling the City with four years more of CONNOLLY, after the people had made up their minds to let him retire into private life. The public has not forgotten the extraordinary means that were adopted to keep the present Controller in office. If the secrets connected with these manœuvres would affect the reputation of CONNOLLY alone, there would have been no motive for the other members of the "Ring" to take such pains to prevent their being divulged; on the contrary, they would have been glad of the chance to clear their skirts of the guilt, and rid themselves of all connection with its author. But the truth was, they were all in the same boat together; they all had their "rake" in the plunder stolen from the City Treasury, and they had a common interest in keeping CONNOLLY, who had drawn the fraudulent warrants, at the head of the Finance Department.

The Ring Charter, it will be remembered, did not put the appointment of Controller in the hands of the Mayor, but left the office elective. After its passage, however, it was discovered that MATTHEW T. BRENNAN, who affiliated with the "Young Democracy," was determined to run for the office, with a fair prospect of success; whereupon the Ring resorted to the trick of inserting a clause in the TAX Levy of 1870, abolishing the office of Controller as an elective office, and authorizing Mayor HALL to appoint a Controller for four years. The fact that such a clause had been smuggled into the TAX Levy was not known to a dozen persons till after the adjournment of the Legislature. The Mayor was authorized to make the appointment within five days after the passage of the act, and, before the people of this City knew that such an act had been passed, HALL had made the appointment, and placed RICHARD B. CONNOLLY at the head of the Finance Department for four years. Why did he appoint CONNOLLY? He was at that time, and had been for two years, under a cloud, and charges had been made and reiterated against his management of the Finance Department. He could not have got a renomination to the office even from his own party; and when it was discovered, previous to the election last Fall, that the Opposition were going to run a candidate for Controller on the ground that CONNOLLY'S surreptitious appointment was illegal, Tammany itself did not dare to renominate him, although it managed to have tickets distributed for him on the morning of the election. The vote for Controller was never declared by the Board of Supervisors, and it is not known to this day whether he received a majority or not. But to make things sure, and fix CONNOLLY firmly in his seat, the Ring last Winter got another act passed through the Legislature confirming HALL'S appointment, and taking the election of Controller permanently out of the hands of the people. There can be but one inference drawn from these unheard-of proceedings, and that is that the members of the Ring all had a strong personal and private interest in keeping CONNOLLY in the office of Controller.

And now, when they find the secrets which they all so much dreaded have been stolen from the Controller's office, and the public indignation which they fancied would "blow over," is still increasing against them, they try to save themselves by pitching overboard the very man on whom the salvation of the whole gang has hitherto depended. Their professions of astonishment and anger at the abstraction of the Controller's records is "too thin," as the saying is. They were all equally interested in the theft, and are equally delighted at it, if, indeed, they were not all privy to it. HALL, as we have seen, saddled CONNOLLY upon the Finance Department; and, not only that, he has always been his foremost champion and defender up to the time he conceived the idea of sacrificing him in the vain hope of saving himself. The very day he asked him to resign, he presented to the Court an affidavit which is as full and perfect a defense of CONNOLLY as it is of himself. The last public speech made by HALL prior to the November election last year, was a glowing eulogy of CONNOLLY, in which he read the famous whitewashing certificate of ASTOR, ROBARTS et al., and brought down the cheers of the wigwam for his favorite Controller. From that day to this he has assured the public over and over again, that CONNOLLY'S administration of the Finance Department was able, upright, and honest. Nay, he has proved that CONNOLLY is an honester man, and more careful of the public money, than he is himself. In his affidavit, read in Court on Monday, HALL swears (and the World quotes the averment in italics) that since the 1st of January last, "there has not been, to his knowledge, information or belief, any suspicious, unjust, illegal, extortionate, or extravagant claim or debt or demand against the City Government paid from the Treasury." This averment, supposing it to be true, could never have been made if CONNOLLY had not been more honest and conscientious than HALL; for in June last the Board of Supervisors, of which HALL is President, and all of whose acts he has to approve as Mayor, certified and ordered to be paid a bill of $28,000 for carpenter-work done in the Marine Court by one MCKENNA, which work was not worth five hundred dollars. It is no merit or HALL'S that this "unjust, illegal, extortionate and extravagant" bill was not paid, and the Treasury swindled out of that amount. CONNOLLY refused to pay it, and told the man who presented it that the work on which the claim was based was not worth $250. Under these circumstances, we submit that CARNY ought to resign before his less culpable confederate.

A Mountain on the Future.

Europe is not yet "either Republican or Cossack," and NAPOLEON'S memorable prediction remains unfulfilled. There are those, notwithstanding, who believe its realization to be only deferred, and whose convictions are uninfluenced even by the momentous changes lately brought about. It is a remarkable fact that unfulfilled prophecy seldom diminishes the number of prophets, or the interest with which their announcements are received. A man who forecasts the future only on a small scale is apt, it is true, to be rather a bore than otherwise; but one who does it stupendously, without the least doubt or hesitancy, rises almost to genius, and so becomes a very interesting person. This is what a distinguished Russian policeman has just been doing, and his prognostications, as delivered to an equally well-known European politician, are receiving not a little attention. The former, it is this country, would surely be honored with the title of the "Champion Prophet," and we hasten to lay before our readers what ought, without doubt, to establish his pretensions to that dignity.

It should be premised that the prophecies have been conveyed in dialogue, and are now going the rounds of the European Press; and that the preliminary anticipations are less novel than the subsequent ones. The Crimean War, then, according to this far-seeing philosopher, in the first place will prove the foundation of Russia's greatness. It did for her what the campaign of Jena has done for Prussia. It showed her that, whatever their numbers or courage, her soldiers were inferior in manœuvring and in discipline. England went to war with Russia because she wanted the commerce of Turkey; so also did Russia, but Russia will ultimately have her way. The English troops in the Crimea were shamefully mismanaged, but her forces, both sea and land, are now in a worse condition than ever. England will not occupy her present position many years more. Her dominion over the seas will pass away, to be assumed by the "Great Scandinavian Monarchy, consisting of Sweden, Norway, and Denmark." All great maritime nations have crumbled to decay—the Dutch, the Venetians, and the Spanish; and England will not be an exception. She rose to the first rank on the ruins of the Spanish Armada; and some day her foes will combine to give her such a defeat that she will never recover from it. Russia will take India, but she will first go to war with Prussia. After that, the German Empire will be "divided into Prussia as a kingdom, the head of the Protestant States; Bavaria will occupy all the Catholic portion, while Hungary, Bohemia, and the Danubian Principalities will form the Kingdom of Sclavonia, and Austria will become a third-rate Power. France will recover Alsace and Lorraine, but will lose the portion of Italy ceded to her. There will be no Pope, but Rome will be the capital of Italy."

At the same time, Turkey as an independent Power, will cease to exist. "Constantinople will again be the capital of the Greek Empire." Spain and Portugal will be consolidated into one kingdom, as will likewise Holland and Belgium, the latter as the most powerful, absorbing the former. Malta and Gibraltar will fall into the hands of the United States, who will likewise seize both Canada and Mexico; and France, at this juncture, will not help England, because of her conduct during France's bitter need in the late war. Meanwhile, after a trial of the Orleans family, the Napoleonic dynasty will return, and establish itself more firmly than ever before. The Roman Catholic religion will, virtually come to an end. The declaration of Infallibility was its death-blow, and the marriage of priests will come next to hasten its dissolution. Two great Churches will subsequently flourish for a long time—the Eastern, or Greek, and the Western, or Protestant. After a time these two will fuse, as in their tenets they are not far apart. The head-quarters of the Western Church will be in England, and Ireland will be an independent kingdom, or republic. Russia will wax prodigiously vast and strong, and will last until "the five great Empires of Europe, America, Asia, Africa and Australia arise"—the latter of which, in the remote future, will become the most powerful. These five empires will be historical correlatives of the five great monarchies of antiquity, and—we take it for granted, although the prophet does not say so—will immediately precede the breaking up of all things, and the advent of "chaos and old night."

Although several of these speculations have been heard of before, they are, as a whole, amusing enough. The cool audacity that affects to peer into and measure the future, seems always to have a certain attraction. Yet, however plausible such theories may sometimes be, and however ingeniously constructed in their relations to past experiences and present probabilities, they necessarily leave out of the calculation an element likely to be the most important of all, i. e., the rise of remarkable individuals, who, like ALEXANDER or NAPOLEON, may totally alter the ordinary drift and progress of things. In the absence of any knowledge of such personages, it is clear that "prophecy," such as our Russian soothsman's, can be of little use, save to reflect or conceal possible schemes of national ambition and aggrandizement.

The Saratoga Boat Race.

The victory of WARD'S crew at Saratoga is the second aquatic triumph in which he has figured this year. Before the recent University race between crews from Harvard, Brown, and Amherst, it was generally supposed that the prize would easily fall to the veterans of the magenta. As the time of the race approached, however, it began to be whispered about that the Amherst farmers were doing good work under the coaching of JOSH. WARD, and that even if they had not acquired a very finished style, they were still able to row well enough together to give a good account of themselves when required. The result verified the prediction, for the tough sinews and elastic muscles of the "Aggie," as they were derisively called, brought them home winners in a race which is claimed to be the fastest three miles on the boating records. Little has been heard of the WARD brothers as a crew since their defeat at Springfield by the Paris crew in 1869, but as soon as it was known that a couple of English crews were to put in an appearance at the Saratoga regatta, there was a general desire among boating men that the WARDS should meet them to support the honor of our native oarsmen. The substitution of young ELLIS, for his older brother, CHARLES, was conceded to be a wise change, and though the prestige gained by the Taylor-Winship crew at Halifax made them the favorites in the pools, people who saw the fine condition and excellent form of the WARDS held to the belief that the victorious four sat in the boat hailing from Cornwall, on the Hudson. And so the event proved. PERCY, CHARMERS, and KELLEY, of the Tyne crew, with a substitute for RENFORTH, were able to lead the victorious Taylor-Winship crew, and make a good second, but the WARDS were first, and Saratoga was once more the scene of an American victory.

A pleasant feature of this important race is the absence of all doubt about the real victors. Each boat turned its own stake-boat, and thus all disputes of fouling in turning were obviated, while the clear lead of a length and a half unmistakably indicated the winning crew. The dispute between the Taylor and Coulter crews being amicably adjusted, nothing remains to mar the success of the race. If future regatta committees will follow the example set at Saratoga, and invariably provide separate stake-boats for each of the contestants, the suspicion of prearranged foulings, which has of late fallen on so many professional rowing matches, will be likely to entirely disappear. It was, under the circumstances, somewhat unfortunate that the four-oared and single-scull race should take place on the same day. COULTER did not enter this last contest, and ELLIS WARD, who bids fair to emulate the renown of his brother JOSH, is still too young to be able to contend successfully with such veterans as SADLER, KELLEY and BIGLIN, on the afternoon of a day in which he had already rowed in a hotly-contended race. The result might not have been different in any event; but as it was, the victory of young WARD would have been almost a miracle. Still, the prowess of American oarsmen on their own waters has been vindicated, and we have good reason to be satisfied with the result of the regatta. England has seldom seen two better crews than those which recently contended at Saratoga, and a victory over them is an honor indeed. American oarsmen have acquitted themselves well in the contest with their English brethren. Let our yachtsmen see to it that the prowess of our sailing-vessels is equally vindicated in the coming matches with the Livonia.

MINOR TOPICS.

The gallant Republican minority in Maryland held a nominating convention yesterday for Governor and Attorney-General. In their resolutions they indorse the National Administration, and recommend the renomination of Gen. GRANT in an emphatic manner. They also pronounce in favor of a civil service reform, which shall secure appointments to office for merit only, and allow of removals only for cause. A resolution reciting that whereas the President had referred the question of the annexation of San Domingo to Congress, the Convention vote in favor of that measure, was tabled by a decided majority. This is the first time the question has been introduced into a Republican Convention. The resolutions point their denunciation of the Democratic Party by quoting the corruption of Tammany, and its treachery to the sacred principles of religious liberty.

A good deal of noise has been made by the Democratic Press, to which the Evening Post of this City has also contributed, about the nomination of Mr. WASHBURN as Governor of Wisconsin having been dictated from Washington. A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who may be considered as at least not partial to Gen. GRANT, declares, after careful investigation, that there is some particle of truth in the story. Mr. WASHBURN was nominated by a very largely-attended Convention of very respectable character, among whom were only fifteen office-holders—a class of men who seem to have fallen into singular disfavor in certain newspaper offices where, within a few years, they have held entire control. The nomination is heartily accepted and indorsed by the Republicans of Wisconsin. Messrs. WASHBURN and DOOLITTLE are about to go over the State together, and are to have speeches of an enthusiastic and native character and a Republican victory.

Mr. TWEED'S "personal" counsel, yesterday, tried the somewhat desperate course of the proceedings before Judge BARNARD by a mix of disingenuous pleasantry. He had occasion to illustrate his opinion of the injudicious nature of the Judge's injunction, which, according to him, only binds Mr. TWEED to what he was already doing every day. "You might as well enjoin him," said the counsel, "to say his daily prayers." If Mr. TWEED is in the habit of performing those devotions, which sometimes in all ages have served each only slightly to be performed with a countenance cleared by meditation and repentance, it is, his counsel may be sure, no joking matter, and his impiously levity is as much a mockery of his silent acts is disgusting to all decent people.

It is a discovery of the Boston Post's that the country is going to the dogs at a very rapid rate, owing chiefly to the conversion of the "centralized despotism at Washington." "There is no hope of relief or salvation," says the silkstocking Post, "but by the honest, fearless, patriotic Democracy." The case, then, is desperate indeed. The Democracy long since ceased to inspire confidence in its honesty, fearlessness, or patriotism; it has not been for many years.

The acquisition of Alaska has, among other things, brought into notice some queer articles of diet. Indigenous to sea-lion many and whale meat is recommended by the Alaska Herald, which assures its readers that these viands will "make a man virtuous and a woman corpulent." It intimates, moreover, that such dainties are not easy to digest unless washed down by an "aromatic draught of whale-oil." An apothecary's advertisement in the same journal warmly extols "a chemical dilution of the most tender and delicate parts of that phosphoric animal, the fur-seal," which the editor elsewhere announces that he has tried, and found to be "the greatest propelling power of the age."

"International Exhibitions" are becoming the rage, and, unless we are all mistaken, of the sort on a worthy scale before long, we shall lose caste among the nations. Last year there was an exhibition at St. Petersburg which proved, it must be owned, a doubtful success; but the Russians, nothing daunted, are to have a new "Polytechnic Exposition" at Moscow, in 1872. The programme has already been published. It sets forth that "the objects exhibited ought to form collections, more or less complete and systematic, of all that will facilitate the study of the principal sciences; besides which, collections composed of machines and apparatus relating to all branches of industry will doubtless attract, by their perfection, or by their ingenious combination, the attention of Russian manufacturers and artificers." We hope that American mechanicians will see the advantage of preparing samples of their handywork in good season for this exhibition. Russia is making great strides in wealth and education, and is destined to become a customer for our manufactures and inventions much in proportion to the pains we take to bring them to her attention.

The silver statue of NAPOLEON I., which had disappeared from the Tuileries, and which half a dozen people have been accused of stealing, has been found. It was in an underground passage of the old Louvre, with other objects of art, and has been dug up in perfect condition. The well-known group representing the Prince Imperial playing with NERO—a favorite dog—has also been discovered in a similar spot. A good many articles of sorts in the precious metals, that were thrust away at the time of the flight of the Empress, still remain undiscovered, however, and it is believed they have been spirited away to England.

Some of the lower classes in Liverpool indulge in the atrocious practice of plucking the feathers from living hens. The miscreants guilty of such conduct are of the same kidney, doubtless, as those who skin living cats. In the latter case, the excuse is commonly offered that it improves the pelt; but the fowl-plucking practice seems to be one of mere gratuitous cruelty. It is a satisfaction to know that the Magistrates, in recent instances, have absolutely refused to impose fines, and have sent the offenders for salutary terms to jail.

The Charleston Republican is dead. Its last dying speech and confession was as follows:

"We now tell our friends, both in the State and outside of it, who from time to time have spoken good words of us, and wished us long life, that for our death Gov. SCOTT and those who along with him control the patronage of the Government are solely responsible. We have never asked a favor which we had not a right to ask; indeed, we have not asked favors at all, but have simply insisted that the Government, in the distribution of its patronage, should not forget that we * * * were entitled to a full share of that patronage by virtue of our position as a journal representing and advocating Republican principles and measures."

The fact appears to be that there is not yet a Republican Party in the Southern States capable of supporting an independent Republican newspaper. The result is that nearly, if not all Southern Republican journals are fed from the State Treasuries, and do not thrive morally on that diet. This is one of the evils that time alone will cure. With the growth of intelligence among the negroes, with the stamping out of the Ku-klux and the inauguration of political parties divided by honest differences of opinion, and not urged on by passion and prejudice on one hand, and cupidity on the other, journalism will prosper. Meanwhile, it is to be said of the Republican that during its ex-

PERSONAL TRADE-MARKS.

A suit involving interesting legal points respecting the proper form of trade-marks was recently instituted in the Equity Court for this district, by DAVID A. BURR, Esq., of this city, as counsel for JOSEPH ROGERS & SONS, the celebrated cutlers, of Sheffield, England, against MESSRS. PHILE & SOLOMONS, the cutlers, who have the contract for supplying the Treasury Department, with ROGERS & SONS' penknives, erasers, &c. The complaint alleges that the defendants have been selling penknives bearing the counterfeit of their trade-mark. The defendant did not deny the sale of these imitation knives, but alleges that they were manufactured in Germany by a firm known as ROGERS & BONE, who have a royal license from the Prussian Government for a trade mark similar to that of ROGERS & SON of England, and have long been imported and sold in this country. They furthermore contend that plaintiffs cannot maintain their suit in view of the fact that they have not registered their trade-mark in the United States Patent Office, as provided for in the act of Congress on the subject passed in July last. Justice WILLS, after hearing the case under advisement to-day, gave a decision overruling and denying an injunction as prayed for by the plaintiffs, on the ground that the English firm had, by a neglect for a series of years to enforce such rights as they were possessed of under the trade-mark law in this country, waived the right to call upon the Courts to sustenance. The firm which made the cutlery had also a right to use the trade-mark in France, where the goods were manufactured.

AN INVOLUNTARY EXCURSION.

How Four Little Boys Took a Railroad Ride—Desperate Leaps for the Ferry—A Narrow Escape.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW-HAMBURGH, N. Y., Monday, Sept. 11, 1871.

A locomotive running as an extra on the Hudson River Railroad arrived at this station from Poughkeepsie on Saturday, being stopped here by a telegram from that city in consequence of a singular, and what might have been a tragic, incident. Before the locomotive left Poughkeepsie four little boys who were playing about the depot, supposing it was a switch-engine, and only going a little way down the track, climbed stealthily upon the wooden guard just above the bumper on the rear of the tender. This guard is only six inches wide. Three of the boys sat down upon the guard, with their legs hanging over, and the fourth got astride of the iron link which pretruded from the bumper. They could not be seen by the men upon the engine, which moved off and continued increasing its speed until it was going at the rate of forty miles an hour, as was ordered. The boys were in a terrible situation. They dared not climb to the top of the tender for fear of losing their balance, and their cries were drowned by the noise of the engine. Over bridges and by the sides of the depots they were whirled, the cinder carrying to and fro the dust filling their eyes and noses, and almost choking them to death, and entirely obscuring them from the view of the flagmen and trackmen who were passed. The locomotive was signaled at this place, Mr. JAMES SIMMONS having seen the boys in the rear of the locomotive when it left Poughkeepsie. The poor little fellows presented a sorry sight as they were covered with dust from head to foot. The boy who was astride of the link was unable to walk when taken off, his legs being awfully chafed by the motion of the train. The heads of the other three were blistered terribly, and their blood oozed out from under their finger-nails, so tightly had they grasped the wood-work of the fender. They were nearly exhausted, and could have maintained their position but little longer, when they would have been probably instantly killed by striking the bridge which is but a few feet back to Poughkeepsie, where the accident took place. Several hundred dollars in money were contributed, and the spirit of the bleeding was fully in accord with the philanthropic efforts of the women who purpose to take care of the poor sufferers when the Fallen purpose to drive from the streets next week.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Answer to the Tammany Revolutionists—Mistaken Attempts to Manufacture Social Evil Action in Baltimore—Other Matters.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. There is the deepest interest manifested here over the situation of affairs in New-York City. The anxiety pervades all circles, and expression finds vent almost exclusively in one direction. The general feeling is that the attempt to make CONNOLLY the scape-goat of the Ring will and ought to fail, and that he cannot rest to return until very all consent to go out together, unless he is willing to become State's evidence, and thus compel the resignation of the rest. Advices received here show that the effect of the late developments on the Democracy in other States is paralytic, and that the result will be visibly manifest in the October elections.

SYMPTOMS OF ORLEANS AND ERRERIDGE ORDER LATELY.

Among the members of Congress who arrived here to-day are Hon. JOHN HILL, of New-Jersey, and Hon. JUDAH L. STRONG, of Connecticut. The Republican Congressional Executive Committees are now engaged in sending out the requisite checklists of Delaware, Maryland and Kentucky, in addition to the Border States, as "political territory" in the October elections.

MEETING TO SUPPRESS THE SOCIAL EVIL.

The public meeting at Lincoln Hall, to-night, to consider the social evil question, was very largely attended, and the audience was composed of the very best citizens, both ladies and gentlemen. Mrs. SPENCER, President of the Women's Club, presided and opened the proceedings with a written address full of wisely prudent, yet very sensible counsel full of practical thought, exactly was made by Gen. HOWARD, and a stirring address by Judge M. MORRIS, editor of the Chronicle. Several hundred dollars in money were contributed, and the spirit of the meeting was fully in accord with the philanthropic efforts of the women who propose to take care of the poor sufferers when the Fallen propose to drive from the streets next week.

The preparations for this important Congress of Preventive, Reformatory and Penitentiary Associations, to be held in London in June, 1872, are progressing happily. MARYLAND INTO LINE.

Proceedings of the Republican State Convention.

A Hearty Indorsement of President Grant.

The Democratic and Republican Finances Contrasted.

Nomination of the Hon. Jacob Tome for Governor.

Harmonious Action of the Convention on Other Nominees.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12.—The Republicans of Maryland celebrated the battle of North Point today by meeting in Convention in Baltimore for the nomination of a Governor and a State ticket. For more than four years Maryland has been wholly under Democratic control. The Democratic leaders long ago took counsel of Tammany, and have applied the principles of government practiced by the Ring chiefs till the people of the State are growing disgusted and are on the verge of open revolt. The Democrats have more complete away here than they ever had in any other State. There is not a Republican officer in the State Government, not a Republican in the Legislature, not a Republican county officer in a single county in the State. The Democratic majority last year, when Gov. BOWIE was elected, was over 18,000. But the enthusiasm in the Convention today could not have been greater if the Republican Party of Maryland were sure of electing the candidates. Indeed, the contest is not wholly hopeless this time, when the news of Republican triumphs in other States against almost as great odds is taken into the consideration.

The Convention met at 12 o'clock. It was called to order by Gideon D. Wilson, Esq., President of the State Central Committee. Judge D. Weems, of Washington County, was chosen temporary Chairman and Col. Geo. W. King, temporary Secretary. The Committee on Credentials and Permanent Organization was appointed, on motion of Hon. Archibald Stirling, and consisted of one from each county and legislative district of the State. When the Committee had retired to make up its report, there were numerous calls made for Mr. Stirling, but he could not be found. Mr. Hammond, of Carroll County, said he understood that Hon. A. J. Cassatt was in the city, and he moved a committee be appointed to wait upon him and invite him to address the Convention, which was done. Gen. Kenly was then called out. He made a brief and stirring speech, which was often interrupted by applause. He said every pledge of the Republican Party had been observed. He referred approvingly to the reduction of the public debt, and spoke in high terms of Secretary Boutwell's character, for honesty, and asked whether the people of Maryland would like a exchange in the National Government Mr. Boutwell and Republican financiering for William M. Tweed and the frauds of New-York. Always had been great dissatisfaction among the Republicans of Maryland, but it existed no longer. He had seen good soldiers quarrel over the distribution of rations, but when the bugle sounded "boots and saddles," they threw their rations to the dust and went out to beat the enemy. They were going to do that in Maryland.

As Gen. King was closing his remarks, Mr. Cresswell entered the hall. He was greeted with tremendous applause, and was conducted at once to the platform. The presence of this Convention, composed of the most respectable and influential gentlemen of the State, gave ample assurance, he said, that the Republican Party of Maryland still lived and was full of vigor. The news from other sections of the country gave assurance, not only that the Republican Party still lived, but that it was still able to win victories. They in Maryland were going to show that in that portion of the line the Republican ranks were unbroken, and that Rousseau as heretofore, they would sanctify with victory the principles of the Republican Party. And why should they be discouraged? What had occurred in the recent past to cast the slightest doubt upon success in the future? They had been in a continuous minority since 1861. Sometimes victorious and sometimes defeated, but always, as today, undaunted, they had maintained the principles of the Republican Party. Today in the Republican Convention, no distinction was made against any man on account of his race or color. He referred to the election of President GRANT. When the President was elected, he had only the reputation of a soldier, but now in two years his reputation as a statesman was world-wide. In the beginning there were some who had expressed doubts of his Republicanism, but today there is no man throughout this nation that doubted he was a Republican sound to the very core. Had he failed in any particular? Could any man point out any act in his Executive career where he had fallen short of any reasonable Republican expectation? When he entered upon his political career the financial affairs of the country were more embarrassed, perhaps, than at any time during the preceding years. They all knew how grossly the finances had been mismanaged. Had he failed to restore the national credit? Did any man now doubt the ability or the sure purpose to pay every dollar of the national debt at the proper time? There was a fact they would be surprised to hear, because they doubtless had not thought of it. We had already paid and canceled one-tenth of the national debt of the United States. The bonds had been paid and canceled and burned up. We owed today $222,000,000 less than when Gen. GRANT became President. He was not telling what was to be done, but what had already been accomplished and that, too, in the face of a reduction of taxation last Winter amounting to $60,000,000 annually. Besides, to follow up that, $100,000,000 of the new loan had been negotiated, which reduced the rate of interest so that amount from six to five per cent, and the enjoyment of people, especially abroad, to invest in the loan assured a future financial success unequaled in all the history of the world. Every man was known to have a special financial theory. It was easy to have theories, but difficult to put them in practice. The theory that every man was sought to relieve himself of financial embarrassment was, however, to reduce his expenses, to economize, to apply his savings to the payment of his debts, and this was the theory that the President had applied to the national debt. A very simple theory, but one full of difficulties in the application, as every man who had tried it knew. He had already paid one-tenth of the debt, and before the end of his first term he would pay another. Before the end of his second term he would have our finances in such a condition that the debt would be no longer a burden to us. A great many had been disappointed in not having their friends appointed to office. He (the speaker) had been disappointed that way, but the people would know that President GRANT administered the Government in the interest of the people, and all the people. The President presents his record in results. Some people were fond of ascribing these results to accident. Mr. Cresswell enumerated in detail a long list of the results that were denominated accidents, from Belmont to Appomattox Court-house and the Treaty of Washington; and concluded, that, said he, if all is all, it is no account. The President was the greatest accident he ever saw. In the conclusion of the remarks respecting the Administration, Mr. Cresswell said: "It is said that NAPOLEON was a man of destiny. President GRANT is neither a man of destiny nor a man of accident. He is God's instrument in saving this land and restoring it, and if the people are true to him and true to that work, he will do all God intended he should do. I cannot eulogize him too highly. Of all the men I ever met he is the most modest, the most direct, the most sincere, the most manly and patriotic, the most simple in all his dealings, receiving all men alike, listening to all that comes to him, gaining information from every source, he appears to be the interest of the people, and in their abnegation of himself."

The short speech of the Postmaster-General was received with enthusiastic applause, and when he spoke of the renomination of President GRANT, the approving shouts of the whole assembly showed that he only echoed the sentiment of the Maryland Republicans. When he had concluded, the Committee presented its report and the temporary organization was made permanent, a list of the Vice-Presidents, headed with the name of C. D. FULTON, Esq., being added. Judge WEBSTER expressed his thanks to the Convention for the honor of the Chairmanship. On motion of WILLIAM M. MCKELLIP, of Carroll County, the Committee on Resolutions were appointed. While the report was in preparation, the Convention took a recess of a half hour, and afterward listened to an address by Mr. KENNARD, of Baltimore. When the Committee on Resolutions returned it prefaced the report with a letter addressed to the Administration, Mr. Cresswell, the Postmaster-General, and Hon. J. A. J. CRESWELL, conveying to him the confidence of his fellow-citizens, and we cordially indorse him as an approved public servant and honored representative of Maryland in the councils of the nation.

Resolved, That we, the Republicans of Maryland, in Convention assembled, do hereby express our unfaltering confidence in and our cordial support of the Administration of President GRANT, and we indorse the wisdom, energy and patriotism which have characterized his whole career as a statesman and a soldier.

Resolved, That we recognize in President GRANT the true representative of the principles which have pre-eminently qualified him as the standard-bearer of the Republican Party.

That the thanks of all honest men are unreservedly due to the NEW-YORK TIMES for its fearless exposure of the unparalleled frauds of those unblushing thieves who have so mercilessly robbed the people.

That we congratulate the State of California for its noble and heroic efforts in the cause of reform, which while it has won for her the unstinting notes, and from the East greets her sister of the West.

Thirteenth Assembly District Republican Association—Resolutions Approving the Course of the "Times."

The Thirteenth Assembly District Republican Association held a special meeting last evening, at their temporary head-quarters, No. 130 West Twenty-fourth-street, Mr. CHARLES BLACKIE in the chair. The meeting was very largely attended. Since the last meeting of the Association 183 members have been added to the roll. A remarkable sign of the great political changes at present taking place in this City, was the fact that among the signers of the roll were a large number of sturdy Irish laborers who loudly denounced Tammany and the frauds perpetrated on the City by its officials. A series of resolutions were adopted indorsing the Administration of President GRANT, the action taken by the meeting of citizens at the Cooper Institute, and denouncing the frauds of Tammany Hall. The following resolution was also adopted:

Resolved, That the course of the NEW-YORK TIMES, in unflinchingly fighting the robbers whosare despoiling the City, despite all bribes and threats, commands our renewed thanks and confidence.

Second District Republican Association.

At a meeting of the Second Assembly District Republican Association (reorganized party) held, last evening, at No. 181 Chatham-street, the ordinary routine business was transacted, and twenty-five new members admitted. An enrollment meeting will be held this evening.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—1 A. M.—The barometric pressure continues very uniform from the Gulf States north and north-east, being somewhat lower than on Monday night. The pressure has fallen in Texas, but probably risen again. The midnight report is not received. Cloud and rain have prevailed very generally in Florida and Georgia westward, with north-easterly winds except in Texas, where the latter have been variable and brisk. Cloudy weather, without rain, has continued in Virginia and Pennsylvania; smoke and haze from Lake Erie to Illinois. Cloud and rain have continued in Kansas and Nebraska, and clear weather, with light winds, on the upper lakes and in New-England.

PROBABILITIES.

An area of low barometer, with rain, will probably develop on Wednesday in Missouri and Arkansas, and westward. Clear weather, with light winds, will probably continue over the lakes. Middle and Eastern States: cloudy and clearing weather on the Gulf and South Atlantic coast.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Authority of the Superintendent of Buildings—Judge Tappen Makes War on the Department—Judge Barnard on Corrupting the Judiciary.

A motion of considerable public importance, and involving the integrity of the administration of the duties of the Department of the Superintendent of Buildings, came up before Judge BARNARD in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday. The issue is between JAMES M. MACGREGOR, Superintendent of Public Buildings, and ABRAHAM B. TAPPEN, Judge of the Supreme Court in the Second District. It appears from the papers used in the proceedings that Judge TAPPEN was erecting two dwelling-houses in Fifty-seventh-street, and, having carried his party-walls the statutory width of eighteen inches, up to the termination of the third story, desired permission to complete them at a width of only twelve inches. This discretionary permission was refused by Mr. MACGREGOR, the Superintendent of Buildings, and Judge TAPPEN thereupon applied to Judge SUTHERLAND, of the Supreme Court, by whom an order was made granting the desired permission. Disregarding this order, the Superintendent commenced an action in the Court of Common Pleas against Judge TAPPEN, to recover the statutory penalty for a violation of the Building law, in which an injunction was obtained restraining further work on the buildings unless the party-wall was made to conform to the requirements of the statute. On Monday last, Mr. JOHN B. HASKIN appeared on the part of Judge TAPPEN, before Judge JOSEPH F. DALY, of the Court of Common Pleas, and moved to dissolve the injunction. The motion was supported by affidavits, the substance of which Mr. HASKIN stated the Court he could bring abundance of testimony to substantiate.

Judge DALY, after consideration, decided that he could not dissolve the injunction, but suggested that the proper remedy for Judge TAPPEN was to apply to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to enforce the due exercise of its own order as against the authority of the Superintendent of Buildings, and compel the latter to issue his certificate. Yesterday Mr. THOMAS C. FIELDS and Mr. HASKIN appeared on behalf of Judge TAPPEN, before Judge BARNARD, and made application for an injunction against Superintendent MACGREGOR.

The case was fully argued yesterday, when the injunction was dissolved.

The insinuation that there had been any irregularities in the Department of Public Buildings was strongly denied by Mr. SEITZ, counsel for Mr. MACGREGOR, who said that so far as he and Mr. FARRELL were concerned, he knew the statement to be untrue, but of Mr. MURRAY he knew nothing.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

WALLACK'S THEATRE—"THE PRINCESS OF TREBIZONDE."

That the fascination of OFFENBACH'S little operas depends solely upon their licentiousness is, of course, maintained by few. Nay, what some moralists will, dirt as dirt is seldom relished. It is the lustre and sparkle that accompany it that constitutes the attraction. There is no keener adage than that which associates the frank beauty of youth with the principle of evil; and the frolicsome saciedies of OFFENBACH are suggestive of the same idea. Lightness of spirit, the tripping, "unpremeditated art" that SHELLEY apostrophizes in the skylark, a kind of brimming, melodious gayety abounds in most of these compositions which would please, no doubt, even if unprovided with equivocal plots. The latter, to some, render these operas perfection; and even for the greatly number less hardened, is unreasonable in appreciation, the flavor of forbidden fruit has its enticements. It must be admitted, however, of these works, that if no more moral in translation than in their original French dress, they are certainly less elegant.

"The Princess of Trebizonde," as seen on Monday night at Wallack's Theatre, contains, in truth, few traces of its French origin. The translation is free—a little too much so—and the misgivings of the prudish are, in general, singularly devoid of humor. Of the music, judging from a first hearing, a good deal of it is commonplace and tawdry, and some few passages excessively pretty. The overture is conspicuously in the first category, and the song called "The Turtle Doves" in the second. OFFENBACH imitates himself throughout the score with great zeal and success, and, any particular fancy for novelty apart, these affectionate reminiscences are often pleasing. The effect of the first act is, on the whole, not agreeable. Perhaps, from too anxious a solicitude for success, most of the performers on Monday night shouted their spoken passages most unconscionably during the opening parts of the opera—possibly to make up for the more delicate treatment of the singing—and the impression of what seemed a poor imitation of PLANCHÉ—interspersed with "local" allusions not always in the best taste, was far from exhilarating. As regards the singing, most of the artists are like the French interpreters of opera bouffe we have been used to hear in one respect—that of having rather slight voices. The resemblance, however, is not always carried out in other more desirable particulars. In a word, if "The Princess of Trebizonde" is a fair example of English opera bouffe, it must in honesty be pronounced very like champagne without effervescence. Sin is not plated with gold in this instance, and, therefore, in one sense, may be held the more harmless. It is fair to say that the audience of Monday evening seemed highly gratified with their entertainment. If their applause and laughter may be reckoned trusty indications, "The Princess of Trebizonde" will draw and please amazingly; and our readers must reconcile the anomaly as they may.

As regards the performers, if determined effort should win approval they merited it without stint, and without stint they received it. They evinced in no case any lack of animation; and if a trifle more of light and shade must be considered even in burlesque to be desirable, there are certainly apparent intelligible reasons why the performers should think otherwise. Miss LYDIA THOMPSON is exceedingly sprightly in Regina. If she succeeds in imparting to the character no very marked individuality, she is always volatile, alert and painstaking, and pleases her audience to a nicety. Mr. WILLIS EDDUIN is well versed in the ingenious arts whereby a gentleman in female apparel can provoke laughter from a general audience, and Mr. HARRY BECKETT tries hard, and often successfully, to make Gabriola distinctive and amusing. Of the other artists, nothing in particular need be said. The scenery and dresses are quite pretty, and despite the dismal inanity of many of the jokes, and the fact that there is far too much talk in proportion to the music, the attention of the audience seemed always pleasurably occupied. Some of the airs and concerted pieces, among which we may name the duet for two sopranos, a hunting chorus of considerable originality, and the finale to the second act, will help, no doubt, to give the opera a hold on public favor. There was a full house on Monday night, and "The Princess of Trebizonde" will be repeated till further notice.

THE VIENNA LADY ORCHESTRA.

The first performance of the Vienna Lady Orchestra was given at Steinway Hall on Monday evening, to the expressed pleasure of a very large and fashionable audience. The spectacle was certainly a novel one. The platform was changed into a bower, and under the roses were sheltered, instead of the familiar prosaic vulgus of music-makers, a score of blushing maidens attired in purest white, and armed, after the orthodox style, for their harmonious work. The sight of an instrumentalist of the gentler sex has little rarity about it, but the view of an organized force of female musicians was, until Monday, never offered in this country. On this fact was founded a very large share of the first success of the Vienna Lady Orchestra, and on it will rest their prospective triumphs. We would not, however, underrate the cleverness and culture the company displayed. Its members execute with precision and spirit the rather unpretentious selections whereof their programme is made up, and some of the solo talent is to be highly commended. The chief opportunity for fault-finding is suggested by the lack of heavy wood and string instruments, and by the absence of brass. The dry notes of the piano and the broken chords of the harp are quite inadequate to supply a substantial ground for the violins, the violoncello, the dwarfed double bass, and the flutes. The delivery is on that account devoid of color, and the sound rather thin. Another cause for complaint is furnished by the undue prominence of a big drum, and the untunefulness of a small one, both being in altogether too frequent use. We need not be so cautious in praising the recital of the Vienna Lady Orchestra, as in dealing with its composition, and as we stated above, we can join in the admiration generally shown for the vivacity and unity of its readings. A trio brought forth a first violinist whose tone for sweetness and truth is quite unexceptionable, and the share of the violoncellist in the entertainment proved the young lady in charge of that often ill-treated instrument to have perfect surety of fingering, and an eloquence of bow seldom attained to. While the first and third parts of the concert were contributed by the orchestra, the second consisted of singing by Herr JACOB MUELLER and Mlle. ANNA ELZER. Herr MUELLER is gifted with one of the finest baritone voices it has ever been our fortune to hear. It is extended, round and powerful, and true to a degree very few voices of equal volume reach; and in his management of the mezzo-voce, its possessor is quite unequaled. We can only tax Herr MUELLER with a little bad taste in introducing superfluous cadenzas, and the accompanyist, Prof. MULDER-FABERT, is to be censured for a like attempt made in an intended improvement of his accompaniments. Herr MUELLER delighted the audience Monday evening, and each of his songs was repeated. The impression of his debut, indeed, was as favorable as we could wish the most eminent artist to produce. For the critical, that of Mlle. ELZER, though sensitying, was not so decisive. Mlle. ELZER has a good mezzo-soprano voice, almost low enough for a contralto, tolerably homogeneous, more metallic than rich, and not very agile. It is not, however, a child's voice, but rather that of a promising girl, whom it will enable, by its range and force, to sing the weightier rôles in opera. Mlle. ELZER's numbers were both redemanded, and the second, the pretty "Mandolinata," with its quaint intervals, is now on the bills for the Winter.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Interesting News from Hong-Kong and Yokohama.

A New Treaty Ratified—An Apology Made to the American Minister—Miscellaneous News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 12.—The steamship China, from Hong Kong and Yokohama, brings the following news: The ratifications of the treaty between Japan and Hawaii, negotiated through Mr. DEBOSE, the American Minister, have been exchanged. Minister DELONG recently complained the British Chargé d' Affaires at Yokohama, to apologize for insulting remarks concerning Americans in general and himself in particular. He also compelled the English editor of the Japan Mail to publish an abject apology for publishing a scurrilous documental purporting to have been issued from the American Consulate. Commissioners of China and Japan are preparing a treaty between those two countries. All the foreign Ministers, except the American, have been called home to consult with their Governments concerning the treaties concluded with China and Japan by European and American nations. An American having been imprisoned without cause, the Japanese authorities, on the demand of Consul SHEPPARD, released him, made an apology, and dismissed the officer who made the arrest.

Great changes are making in the Government of Japan. SATSUMA is getting the upper hand slowly. There is great anxiety among all classes in China to know what action the United States will take in relation to future dealings with China.

There is a general feeling among Americans and in the navy against uniting with other foreign Governments, under any circumstances.

Gen. LOW, the American Minister to China, made a visit to Japan, and returned on the 26th of August.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

From the Washington Republican, Sept. 9.

It is a healthy and hopeful sign that the NEW-YORK TIMES, which is doing such gallant and brave service in the cause of good government and public honesty, has at present a larger circulation than it ever had, with the exception of one period during the late war. We rejoice at the success and prosperity of this really great newspaper. An honest and fearless journal is the greatest blessing that a community could possibly have, and such a journal is the NEW-YORK TIMES.

Mr. Bonner and his Offer—He Sounds by 15 and Measures 16.

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune:

I have seen your article in regard to my offer for a horse that would beat Dexter's time. To set the matter right I telegraph you in full a copy of my only letter on that subject, as originally published in the New-York papers:

DEAR SIR: I have received your favor of the 11th inst., in which you inquire if there are any conditions, so far as soundness or age is concerned, annexed to my offer of $100,000 for a horse that can equal Dexter's recent performance of 2:18¼ in a road wagon. In reply I have to state that I have no conditions of the kind to interpose. Show me the best wide open. Of course, I should expect a young and sound horse like Dexter, but I shall not make it a barrier against any horse undertaking to perform the feat, whether he be young or old, sound or unsound, lame or free from lameness; whether he have one spavin or two, three-ring or no ring, or blind in one eye or both; broken-winded or foundered, so that he performs the feat of starting as Dexter started from my stable in Twenty-seventh-street, near Ninth-avenue, at 1 o'clock P. M., and trotting during the same afternoon on Prospect Park, as Dexter trotted, a mile in 2:21¾, to a road-wagon and driver weighing together 350 pounds. There must be no running or jumping—every inch of the mile must be trotted as Dexter trotted it, without a single skip or jump; and I must have the privilege of witnessing and timing the trial, and taking one or two friends with me. The owner of the horse can also have one or two friends present, if he desires, and I will be concerned, personally or otherwise, in no public or advertising way. I will pay $1 a piece for the entrance tickets of the parties given for betting.

If you know of any man who owns a horse that can perform this feat, I will thank you to send him to me, as I want to own the animal, even if he has any or all of the blemishes which I have enumerated. With all of them I would consider him cheap at the price named, after performing the feat in question; and I would thank you, also, if you put me in the way of procuring such a horse—either with or without blemishes—you will have my lasting gratitude, and find me ready at any time, whether night or day, to reciprocate the favor.

Yours truly, ROBERT BONNER.

To this letter I still adhere. Moreover, to encourage improvement in the breed of horses, and to reward great performances by them, I hereby offer the sum of $10,000 for the mere privilege of seeing any other horse make that performance. I trust that your question, "Will BONNER BONNER please arise and prove himself equal to the duty of the hour?" is satisfactorily answered.

Very sincerely yours, ROBERT BONNER.

BY JOHN LEIGHTON, F. S. A.
Square royal 8vo, attractively bound in cloth extra, gilt top, $4.

 To the law-abiding and English-speaking races the great drama of the Commune must be intensely interesting—a drama not without its moral—and one that the French people believe, in their sorrow, has been forced on their soil for the benefit of the human race. So it no doubt may be considered upon the theatre of Paris—proved at length to all—for the denouement has been terrible enough, and the plot most ghastly. The illustrations in the work include views of all prominent localities, palaces and monuments, portraits of eminent Communists, Generals and Officers, and scenes on the spot of contemporaneous events, &c. &c., rendering it of great interest to the general reader, as well as of permanent historical value.

First Mortgage, Convertible,

7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds

OF THE

PEORIA & ROCK ISLAND RAILWAY

OF ILLINOIS.

First Mortgage Bonds - - - $1,500,000
Capital Stock - - - - - - - 2,000,000

This is a COMPLETED Road of 102½ miles in length, connecting the important Cities of Peoria on the Illinois River, and Rock Island, Moline and Davenport, on the Mississippi. Davenport, on the opposite bank of the river, is connected by a railway bridge. The last rail of this road was laid July 7, 1871, and the line is now open and being operated with a success exceeding all anticipation. In order to place upon the road the large equipment necessary for the business offered, and to construct depots, car and engine-houses, machine-shops, &c., equal to any of the best old roads in the country, as is now required of this, the Company offer, through the undersigned, $1,500,000 convertible first mortgage gold bonds, which cover the entire property of the Company, and is less than $17,000 per mile. PRESENT PRICE, 90, AND ACCRUED INTEREST AT CURRENCY. Principal and interest payable in coin at New-York or London, free of tax.

This road, opened for the immense local as well as through traffic now offered, will prove one of the most profitable in the West, traversing as it does a section of country unsurpassed in fertility of soil and agricultural resources, already thickly populated and in a high state of cultivation. This is self-evident from the fact that every section of the road passes through cultivated fields and many flourishing towns and villages, with a large city and navigable river at both ends. Railroads in the West have been heretofore constructed through unsettled and uncultivated regions of the country, consequently have had but little local traffic to depend upon for several years after construction. But the Peoria and Rock Island Railway is a first class COMPLETED road, with NO PARALLEL or COMPETING LINE, and RUNS THROUGH ONE OF THE RICHEST AGRICULTURAL, MANUFACTURING AND MOST POPULOUS DISTRICTS IN THE WEST. Thus it is certain that the local business is already more than enough to sustain the road, while the through traffic is unlimited, as its connections are numerous, which can be seen by a glance at the map.

This road is a grand central link, to which many of the principal lines centralize and diverge to all parts of the continent.

We invite the attention of investors to this loan. Being familiar with the wealth and resources of the country along the line of this railway and a MEMBER OF OUR FIRM HAVING MADE A CAREFUL EXAMINATION OF THE ROAD AND ITS PROPERTY, WE CAN WITH THE UTMOST CONFIDENCE RECOMMEND THE BONDS AS A PRIME SECURITY, reliable and safe in every particular.

All marketable securities received in exchange at full rates, and bonds delivered to all parts of the country, free of express charges.

Maps, circulars, &c., with full particulars relating to the road, furnished on application by the undersigned, Financial Agents of the Company.

These bonds are secured by mortgage in pursuance of a deed executed on the 1st of January, 1868, in which Henry Sewell Stokes, of London, and James M. Calder are named trustees, being the only mortgage lien on the railway and rolling stock of the corporation, and are part of an issue made in conversion of sterling bonds amounting to £616,000 sterling, being the equivalent in United States currency of $3,000,000, and less than $25,000 per mile, the length of railway being 243 miles.

The gross receipts of the Company for 1870 amounted to $1,406,240 60; operating expenses and renewals, $816,465 82, showing a profit of $622,744 77, or $225,744 77 in excess of its annual interest on 7 per cent on $3,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds.

CONNOLLY'S ACCOUNTS.

Another Meeting of the Joint Committee of Investigation.

The Deputy Controller Before the Committee.

Can the Stolen Vouchers be Replaced?—The Citizens Hereafter to Meet in Private Session.

Another Meeting of the Joint Committee of Investigation—The Deputy Controller Before the Committee—Can the Stolen Vouchers be Replaced?—The Citizens Hereafter to Meet in Private Session.

Yesterday, at 2 P. M., the Joint Committee of Aldermen, Supervisors and citizens appointed to investigate the accounts of the Controller's Department met in the chamber of the Board of Supervisors. All the members of the Committee were present, with the exception of Mr. A. J. ROOSEVELT, who, it was said, was out of town.

In the absence of Recorder HACKETT, Alderman DIMOND took the chair.

Mr. FERLIN asked whether the minutes of the meetings of the Committee could not be written in a book, so that they would always be handy for reference.

The clerk promised that he would so prepare them for the future.

Alderman WOLFMAN asked whether the Chairman or clerk had received any statement of the City and County debt, as asked for by the Committee, or whether they had any message from the Controller.

The Chairman said nothing had been received either from the Mayor or Controller.

Alderman WOLFMAN said they must have some documents in hand before they could take any further action.

The Clerk said he had just been informed the Controller was preparing a message for them.

On motion, Mr. BOOTH and Alderman WOLFMAN were appointed a committee to wait on the Controller.

They did so, and reported that both Mr. CONNOLLY and his deputy were absent, but that they would return shortly.

Mr. BOOTH added that Mr. DUCKMAN, the Stock Clerk, said that his statement of the City and County debt was ready, but it must be submitted to the Controller before he could place it in the hands of the Committee.

A recess of ten minutes was then taken, after which the following documents were brought in from the Controller's office: Report of expenditures on account of the City for 1871; annual report of the same with details; also, similar reports for 1867, 1868, 1869 and 1870; and the tenth and eleventh annual reports of the Controller, giving details of county expenditures for 1867, 1868 and 1869; a statement of the City and county debt to Aug. 31, 1871, which stands as fol.ows

COUNTY DEBT, AUG. 31, 1871.

Stock	$28,916,250 00
Revenue Bonds	10,951,000 00

CITY DEBT, AUG. 31, 1871.

Stock	$54,389,908 41
Temporary debt	11,624,500 00
Revenue Bonds	11,814,450 00

The documents having been placed on the Clerk's desk, Mr. BOOTH asked whether the Committee could be provided with rooms in the building in which to retire and their examination, or not. Mr. BOOTH thought they would want two, or perhaps three, rooms.

It was finally decided that the Committee should occupy the chamber of the Board of Supervisors and the ante-room.

Mr. BOOTH then wished to know who was to pay the expenses of the Committee, as they would necessitate the employment of clerks.

The Chairman said he understood the Common Council would pay these expenses.

Mr. BOOTH said the Committee would probably be disposed to enter on their work at once, and to employ such aid as they might deem necessary. Their investigations must necessarily be private, as otherwise their endeavors would be interfered with. There also were reasons for privacy. It must, therefore, be understood that their sittings would hereafter be private, and they must not be intruded on in any way. The Committee would further like to have copies of the fifth and any later editions of the revised statutes, including "Edmonds' Digest;" Laws of 1870 and 1871, and for the eleven years preceding; revised ordinances of the Corporation of New-York City; copies of the last three revisions of said ordinances; joint proceedings of the City Council from 1849 inclusive; documents of each Board of the City Council for said years, with joint proceedings and documents of the Board of Supervisors; occasional and annual reports, messages, budgets and documents sent by the Controller to the Board of Supervisors from 1869 to 1871, quarterly reports of City and County claims audited and paid during the last two years. The Committee, he said, would probably require other documents, but these would be enough to begin with. Before deciding on their course of procedure, the Committee would like to know what officer of the Finance Department had general charge of the accounts of the Department.

It was, after some discussion, decided that Mr. RICHARD STORRS, Deputy Controller, was the person who had general charge of the accounts; and a messenger was dispatched for him.

Mr. STORRS appearing, he was subjected to a very long examination by Mr. BOOTH as to the manner in which the routine business of the office is conducted. In answer to Mr. BOOTH'S questions, Mr. STORRS said he had been in the Finance Department since 1867; was a clerk up to 1874, and was then appointed Deputy Controller; Mr. WARREN was his immediate predecessor; has the general supervision of the accounts of all the Departments; the Controller is informed of deposits made by the City Chamberlain in the bank by duplicate deposit receipts being handed to him; all collections are paid over by the various collectors daily; the Controller regulates all that; payments on City and County account are made by warrants drawn on the City Chamberlain; warrants are signed by the Controller and the Mayor; previous to the passage of the new Charter the Clerk of the Common Council had to sign City warrants, but not now; County warrants are signed by the Mayor, Controller, and Clerk of the Board of Supervisors; there are two Sinking Funds, one for payment of the City debt and one for the payment of the interest on the debt; the Sinking Fund is managed by the Mayor, Controller, Chamberlain, Recorder, and the Chairman of the Finance Committee, of each Board of the Common Council; they constitute the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund; four make a quorum; the Controller must be one of the four; Mr. W. H. DECKMAN is their clerk; he is also the stock and bond clerk; a majority of the Commissioners sign the warrants; the Deputy Controller has no power to sign any warrants, except under the act of last Winter, where it is specially designated what he shall sign; the Chamberlain renders the Controller a weekly account of receipts and payments; they are compared with the vouchers on account of the City, County and Sinking Fund; all canceled warrants are returned and filed away; warrants are all made payable to order, and must be indorsed by the person drawing the money.

Mr. STORRS here, by request, produced a statement of the City Chamberlain for the week ending Aug. 21, and read as follows:

Balance in Sinking Fund Aug. 21	$283,270 47
Previous balance	207,101 66
Balance for payment of interest	756,013 66
Previous balance	746,067 67
On City account Aug. 21, overdrafts	4,176,026 23
Balances Aug. 19	2,046,216 29
Credit balance to County account Aug. 21	4,062,326 23
Balance Aug. 19	2,711,826 23

The average cash balance kept in bank during the year, Mr. STORRS said, was about $3,000,000. His statement was then dispensed as follows: It was at one time the practice of the Controller to make weekly reports of balances to the Common Council; this had been discontinued; did not know when this practice ceased; there was no special reason for giving it up that he knew of; the Controller's warrants are numbered consecutively and filed away; all warrants are prepared in the Auditing Bureau; they are then registered and signed; each warrant bears on its face the account against which it is drawn and to which it is to be charged; appropriations must be made before expenditures; the appropriations are made by the Board of Apportionment; the general ledger shows the financial condition of the City and County by the issue of stocks and bonds, and the general indebtedness; the interest upon stocks and bonds is paid through the City Chamberlain on warrants issued by the Controller; the stock and bond clerk gets a salary of $2,500 a year; general balance sheets are taken monthly, and recorded by the book-keeper; Mr. HERRING is the auditor of City accounts, Mr. STEPHEN LYNES, of County accounts; Mr. LYNES was appointed in May last, on the death of JAMES WADSON; the auditors get $3,500 per annum; they formerly got $4,000; the Board of Apportionment reduced their salaries twenty-five per cent.; after warrants are countersigned, they are registered and distributed.

Mr. BOOTH here made some remarks in regard to the disappearance of certain vouchers and warrants from the Controller's office.

Mr. STORRS said all he knew about the matter was that they had been stolen.

Mr. JEREMIAH asked whether transcripts of bills rendered were kept—that is, whether the items of the bills were copied into any book?

Mr. STORRS said in some cases they were—in others not.

Mr. ROYAL PHELPS wished to know whether duplicates of the bills and vouchers missing could not be obtained from the parties who furnished them in the first place?

Mr. STORRS said he supposed they could.

A BOLTER was then made to adjourn to 10 A. M. today; lost.

The clerk said he could not possibly obtain the books and documents asked for by the Committee by 10 A. M. to-morrow. As he understood it, they asked for some 400 or 500 documents. He would obtain them as soon as possible, and get a horse and wagon and convey them to the Committee's rooms, lest the would take time.

After some further informal discussion it was resolved to adjourn to 10 A. M. today, when the Committee of Citizens will meet in private session.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FAIR.

The Exhibition in Good Order—Visit of the Japanese Commissioner of Agriculture.

The attendance at the Fair thus far this week has been very large, far exceeding the attendance of any previous year. Large numbers of exhibitors from distant parts of the country are here with their wares and manufactures for exhibition and competition with their Eastern brethren. Yesterday there was a fine horticultural display, flowers and rare plants in great profusion adorning a number of the tables. There was also a display of upward of 250 different varieties of pears—ripe, rich and luscious—tempting the many visitors, who were requested in the most aggravating of labels to "please not handle."

To an ordinary observer, there appeared to be six or eight different kinds of this fruit, but connoisseurs, who hung lovingly about the tables, assumed to discover a wide difference between each plate. Nearly all the machinery is now in running order, and a more extensive variety has never been gathered together at any fair. These are not only working constantly, but lay out and finish work in the presence of visitors. Some intricately-ingenious wood-working machines attract much attention by constantly turning out scroll-work, mouldings, matchings, and dovetailing, beside the more ordinary work of sawing and planing. The Lyall loom, for weaving carpets, &c., is surrounded by curious visitors all the time, as are also the printing-presses. Of fancy goods there is more than an average supply, embracing almost everything that can be desired in the household or for the person. The music provided, afternoon and evening, is an attractive feature of the exhibition.

Last evening the Fair was visited by Mr. HASSAKAWA JUNGERO, the Japanese Commissioner of Agriculture. He was visiting in San Francisco, when he saw a notice of the American Institute Fair, and resolved to visit it and see a concentration of American products and machinery. He brought letters of introduction from the President of the California Mechanics' Institute, and from other prominent persons in California. He was taken in charge by the managers, and duly shown all the many objects of interest at the Fair. He expressed himself as highly delighted with his visit.

THE BINGHAMTON SENSATION.

Van Epps Under Arrest—His Examination Postponed for the Present.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Tuesday, Sept. 12, 1871.

VAN EPPS, the Superintendent of the Susquehanna Valley Home, has arrived here, and was arrested on a charge of assault and battery upon the Bowman boy, about whose case I have already written you. He appeared before the Recorder yesterday morning, when, by consent of Mr. ELIJAH CASELE, prosecutor for the people, proceedings were postponed until after the investigation by the Committee shall be closed, or probably in a fortnight. VAN EPPS says he feels confident that when the facts in the matter are brought to light he will occupy a different position in the opinion of the public than he does now. The Committee will meet this evening, at the office of Judge EDWARDS, for further action.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

We have received a denial from MORRIS ELLINGER that he has any connection with Tammany Hall. We publish the fact now, and shall refer to his statement more fully in a few days.

A correspondent of the New-York Daily Skandinavisk Post says that CHARLES XV., King of Sweden, is about to be married to the Princess THYRA, youngest daughter of the King of Denmark. Should this be the case, the King of Sweden, whose daughter is married to the Crown Prince of Denmark, would be his own daughter's brother-in-law, and his son-in-law, the Crown Prince of Denmark, would be a son of his own sister. If THYRA should have children there would be a very curious state of relationship in that family.

An inquest was held by Coroner YOUNG, yesterday, in the case of JOHN HASSETT, of No. 11 Jacob-street, who was run over and killed by car No. 46 of the Bleecker-street Railroad, at the corner of Fourth and Bleecker streets. Four of the jury came to the conclusion that death was accidental, while the remaining two were unable to determine whether it was the result of accident or not.

The inquest in the case of GEORGE LEE, of One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street and Fourth-avenue, who was supposed to have been killed by EDWARD KING and JAMES VALENTINE, on the 6th inst., was concluded by Coroner HENNESSY yesterday. The jury rendered a verdict that death had resulted from apoplexy, accelerated by violence at the hands of VALENTINE, who was committed to the Tombs. KING was discharged.

JAMES COLLINS, the Captain and owner of the canal-boat Great North, lying at the foot of Dover-street, was found at 6 o'clock yesterday morning lying in the hold of the boat quite dead, and with his skull stove in. An investigation was made by Coroner KENNAN, from which it appeared that COLLINS had accidentally fallen into the hold, and thus met his death.

Yesterday morning C. M. TEH, an attaché of the Chinese Ambassador to the French Government, called at the Mayor's office to present the respects of the Ambassador, TCHOUNG HAOU, who arrived in this City on Monday in the City of Baltimore, and who, in a few days, will take the Pacific Railroad for San Francisco, on his way back to his own country.

Police Commissioner MANIERRE heard twenty-seven complaints against policemen yesterday. Coroner HERRMAN held an inquest yesterday in the case of WM. CARNEY, of No. 402 Third-avenue, whose death resulted from injuries received by being run over by car No. 141 of the Third-avenue Railroad on the 30th ult. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.
